'Effective Alternative' to Social Credit

Plan to Unite Opposition Gaining Ground in B.C.

'Feeler' Talks Slated

A union of opposition political parties to "provide an effective alternative" to Social Credit is being discussed in Victoria and other parts of B.C., The Daily Colonist learned last night.

Suggestion that the CCF, Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties unite "for provincial purposes only," was first made when the results of the Sept. 19 provincial election became apparent.

The proposal was made among Victoria business and professional men, members of which have since taken it to Vancouver, Alberni, Courtenay, Penticton and several centres in the northern part of the province.

Spokesmen for four parties were asked last night for their opinions of a united party.

NO SURPRISE

"It wouldn't surprise me in the least," said Health Minister Eric Martin, Social Credit.

A CCF spokesman gave a personal opinion that his party would oppose the plan. Liberals and Conservatives felt a strong opposition was needed but it was "too close to the election to form any opinions as to what the solution might be."

A Victoria businessman said the group of citizens feel a return to a two-party system is necessary.

He also pointed out that Social Credit won 46 per cent of the votes and 75 per cent of the seats in the election.

MAIN PARTY

"We must realize that Social Credit has now established itself as the main party of this province," he said. "Premier Bennett must realize it is necessary to have a strong, united opposition in order to give good government.

"The idea is not to be out to defeat Social Credit but to provide an effective alternative," he said.

The businessman insisted that the party would not unite for federal purposes because "members should be free to support their own parties, which have done good work for Canada for many years."

IN ALL RIDINGS

He said informal discussions will be held in all ridings as soon as possible. Suggested names for the party have been "B.C." or "United" party or league.

"We're not doing this for the sake of reprieving anyone," he added. "All we are concerned with is sound administration."

The reactions:

George Gregory, Liberal M.L.A. said it's too close to the election to think of solutions, "but I agree the government needs a strong opposition. Any government is a good government if it has that."

TOO SOON TO SAY

Monty Tyrwhitt-Drake, Conservative: "Theoretically, it looks as though it might be a good idea when things settle down. It would be like an extension of the old, non-partisan leagues into provincial politics —but it's too soon to say exactly what could be done."

Frank Snowsell, CCF: "I'm personally not interested in having a setup merely of in's and out's. I'm interested in a real constructive alternative, and that's the CCF. The CCF can gain absolutely nothing from any form of affiliation with any other party."

Mr. Martin: "There are only two political parties—social debt and Social Credit. It wouldn't surprise me if all the social debt parties come together.

"There is little or no difference between CCF and Liberals; and the Conservatives, like the rest of them, long ago lost their rudders and are drifting in the stormy winds of political upheaval."

Sunny Skies Clear Decks In Flatbush

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

BROOKLYN—The weatherman's promise of sunny skies set the stage today for righthanders Don Newcombe of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Don Larsen of the New York Yankees to put on their rain-delayed clash in the second game of the world series.

Newcombe, the major leagues' top winning pitcher this year with 27 victories, was out to crack a personal series jinx and thus give the Dodgers a commanding two-game lead in the classic. (See Page 8.)

Larsen, who won only 11 games but was the Yankees' best pitcher in the last days of the regular season, hoped to even the series for the Yankees before the scene switches to Yankee Stadium tomorrow. Both hurlers were the original pitching choices before rain postponed the second game yesterday.

SUNNY DAY

The rain halted early last evening, although the stars remained hidden. The weather bureau, which had predicted the rain would last until this morning and then clear, switched in a midnight forecast and predicted a "sunny, pleasant" day with temperatures near 70.

If that turned out to be correct, it would make it a routine matter for baseball commissioner Ford Frick to approve the resumption of play today.

The rainout was viewed as favorable to the Dodgers, inasmuch as it gave 39-year-old Sal Maglie, the dramatic 6-3 victor over the Yankees in Wednesday's opener, an extra day of rest but the oddsmakers still are sticking with the Yankees. They've made today's game a pick 'em affair but made the Yankees 11-10 favorites to take the series.

FEW PROBLEMS

The Dodger ticket office said the rainout presented few problems from its point of view and that 34,000 fans could be expected.

The office, however, made hasty arrangements to accommodate Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate, who originally planned to visit Yankee Stadium today.

Stevenson will be given the same accommodations as President Eisenhower had at Wednesday's opener.

Manager Walt Alston and Casey Stengel both shrugged off the rainout as "neither good nor bad for us" but indicated there would be several lineup changes for the second game.

'Well-Spoken' Boy Bandit Holds Up Nanaimo Store

NANAIMO—A youth walked into a small general store here last night, held up the owner with a nickel-plated pistol and escaped with $123 from the till.

Mrs. E. M. Pattison of Pat's Store on Victoria Road said the quiet, well-spoken boy, height about five feet nine inches, walked into her store about 8 p.m. and said:

"This is a holdup."

He pointed the pistol at her.

She replied: "You're kidding."

The youth, she said, told her he was "very serious" when she mentioned phoning the RCMP and she allowed him to remove the contents of the cash register.

Mrs. Pattison was alone in the store at the time and said she had served the youth earlier that evening, but other than that had never seen him before.

She remarked later: "I often wondered what it would be like to be held up. Now I know."

RCMP were still investigating the case late last night, reportedly with a suspect in view.

Friend Steals Baby

CHICAGO (UP) — Ten crack police squads last night sought a month-old boy after a distraught young mother reported a woman she took into her home out of sympathy walked off with the child.

Mrs. Lois Bucher, 21, told police that the woman, known to her only as "Gladys," disappeared with her son, Ronald, when she went to telephone for a taxi-cab for the woman.

Mrs. Bucher said she met the woman in the infants' section of a store near her home.

"The woman played up to Ronald and told me she was expecting a baby very soon," Mrs. Bucher said.

Suddenly, Mrs. Bucher said, the woman complained of feeling ill.

"I felt sorry for her, so I told her I'd take her home with me and give her something to eat," she said.

Mrs. Bucher said she left the woman and Ronald and went to a neighbor's house to call a taxi and that when she returned both were missing.

Israel Toll Rises

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP)—An Israeli announcement Thursday night reported five Israeli workers were killed and one wounded Thursday in a desert road ambush near the Jordan border on the Dead Sea.

It said two vehicles were attacked near Sodom and one managed to escape after one of its passengers was killed.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem, the Jordan-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission—which Israel is boycotting—said Thursday the Jewish Republic is guilty of "flagrant aggression" in its attack on two Jordanian villages last month.

Jordanian delegates and the commission's United Nations chairman voted a censure motion against Israel for an "unprovoked and premeditated attack" in which 39 Jordanians were killed.

The commission called on Israel to desist in aggressions against Jordan. They, the commission said, constitute a threat to peace and security.

'Put in Technicians'

'Weed Duffers From Schools'

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — One of Canada's top industrial spokesmen said Thursday poor students should be weeded out of high schools and replaced by youngsters with technical aptitudes as a step in meeting the country's growing need for trained manpower.

J. N. T. Bulman of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, told a service club that teachers must be paid higher salaries in return for higher qualifications and must help parents and industry sell technical careers to students. They must discover ways of reducing wastage among students.

"Students who are less than serious in their intentions or who lack the diligence and concentrated application necessary to stay the course, must be weeded out earlier than they have hitherto. . .Their places must be taken by those who have shown an aptitude for technical subjects but who have been misguided into other fields of education endeavor," he said.

Canada was the seventh manufacturing country in the world with a comparatively tiny population of 16,000,000. "Canada must make the maximum possible use of her available manpower. . .if our manufacturing capacity sinks the standard of living of the majority of Canadians will sink with it."

He said students must first be made to want to raise their qualifications. Then grants, scholarships and provision of part-time jobs by industry would be needed to make it possible for them to continue long enough in school. Industry could encourage establishment of more vocational schools and pre-engineering colleges. Companies could release some personnel to attend classes a day or two a week.

Cypriots Riot For Food

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UP)—Hungry Cypriots mobbed a food distribution centre here yesterday.

—Women, children and old men screamed and struggled to get into one of the four distribution points where food for all is available during the two hours each day when they are allowed to leave their homes. British police finally restored order.

U.S. Jet Fighters Collide in Flight

McCHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP)—Two air force jet fighter-interceptor planes, each with two men aboard, crashed near Crescent Bay on the Olympic Peninsula Thursday night.

The planes, flying from Paine air force base north of Seattle, are believed to have collided while flying over the wild, mountainous country 100 miles northwest of here as both disappeared from radio and radar contact at the same time.

FATE UNKNOWN

McChord officials said it was not known whether any of the occupants of the two planes managed to parachute from the F89D Scorpions before they crashed.

In Seattle, the Civil Aeronautics Administration reported it has been advised one of the planes crashed on the shores of Lake Crescent, a resort area, and the other about five miles south of there.

The state patrol said it was informed the aircraft burned.

Darkness in the rugged country virtually halted rescue efforts until daybreak.

Brass Will View War on TV Screen

WASHINGTON (NANA)—If and when war strikes the world again, top U.S. military planners will be able to watch actual fighting in every theatre of operations through television receivers at central command headquarters.

According to information received from semi-official sources the first of these command posts has yet to be set up, but design work is being completed by one of the country's most advanced electronics organizations.

These "brain areas" will be established in secret, bomb-proof underground areas in strategic sections of the country. Each of these will be interconnected by a series of TV sets and "scramble" telephones, so that high-level decisions can be made immediately without having to wait for communiques from the front lines.

The exact inner workings of the plan are still highly confidential, but it is known that each "brain area" will be equipped with a large motion-picture type screen banked by a number of TV receivers.

If the military planner wishes front-line action from any of these TV receivers "blown-up," a flick of the switch will transpose it to the large screen. By this means he and his staff will be able to study every detail of the ground fighting or amphibious beachhead operation.

Consideration also is being given to adapting the system to the air force, so that results of bomb drops may be ascertained and evaluated while the aircraft are still over the target area.

This would require a fleet of spotting aircraft and a regular network of relay aircraft lined up back to the base.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

IF I ever get rich, I'll buy a tape recorder. Two of them, perhaps—a big, precision-built machine at home and a pocket-sized job to trap and preserve the utterances of people I interview, so they can never say: "I wuz misquoted."

The portable recorder of my dreams is extremely small, so it won't frighten anyone. Numbers of otherwise normal people flee from any kind of machine like startled deer. A camera scares them into giggles and facial paralysis. Even a pencil and paper, that primitive recording device, gives people the dumb jitters.

Catching sight of the pencil moving, they will stop in mid-sentence and exclaim: "What's that you're writing down? What's that?"

You try to explain gently that you are writing down their words. What do they think? Do they imagine you are brightening up a dull interview by transcribing a few stanzas of "Paradise Lost" from memory?

But the sight of the pencil and paper scares them. Only when they see it do they realise that they have set in motion a chain of production that ends with the printed page, newsboys on the street, and angry readers phoning to spit out words like "liar" and "ignoramus."

Keep Tools Hidden

For this reason it is better to keep the pencil and paper out of sight, if you can trust your memory, and write the whole thing down afterwards.

If you can't trust your memory, you have to bring out those deadly and awe-inspiring tools, pencil and paper, and take your chances on the interviewee being seized by a spasm of publicity fright and shutting up like a mussel at low tide.

* * *

Alternatively, you get a pocket-sized tape recorder. I haven't seen one yet, but the day that it appears on the market, and the day I win a sweepstake prize, I'll be fair game. The first salesman to reach my door gets the order.

Then I'd like to have a precision-built machine to record the small quavering voices of the children and keep them to play back when the children have grown up to be tall, gruff men who know more than their father, and show it.

The tape-recorded voice album, like the snapshot album, may come to be an accepted part of family life one day.

Since I do not own a recording machine, and am not likely to own one soon, I have arranged with a friend to borrow one and buy a tape. The children will probably be dumbstuck at the sight of the machine.

Behind the Curtain

Culture on Shoestring

BILLY ROSE

This is the fourth of a series of six articles by Broadway showman Billy Rose describing a trip behind the Iron Curtain during his tour he arranged a reciprocal exchange of artists and entertainers between Communist Nations and the United States.

By BILLY ROSE

Belgrade is smaller than Buffalo, N.Y., which seldom gets to see a legitimate show. Yet, last season no less than 10 Broadway hits were presented in the capital of Mr. Tito's Yugoslavia. Among them, "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," "Teahouse of the August Moon," "The Caine Mutiny," and "Death of a Salesman."

Belgrade is populated by people who earn an average of $200 a year. Yet a dozen expensive U.S. concert attractions have played the Balkan metropolis in the last 12 months. In addition Dizzy Gillespie and his cats were there recently and darn near blew the town into the Danube.

In the light of this, I wasn't surprised when the officials of Yugoconcert, acting on behalf of the Ministry of Culture, promptly okayed an agreement for a reciprocal exchange of artists, similar to the ones I had worked out with the Soviets and Poles . . .

The strangest bit of drama I saw on the entire trip was the nightly parade on the Terazije, the mile-long Broadway of Belgrade. At six each evening, overhead fluorescent lights flare up, traffic is cut off, and a third of the city's population, around 200,000, start meandering up and down, stopping only to gape at show windows full of costly merchandise they have no hope of ever buying.

Quietly, almost like condemned men walking the last mile, they keep shuffling along this flood-lighted strip, and the ghoulish procession continues until the lights flicker out at midnight.

Why does a third of Belgrade walk the Terazije night after night? An old-time newspaperman explained it this way: The people simply can't bring themselves to go back to those bleak rooms with the four squeezed-in beds . . .

Living Like Sardines

There's a story about squeezed-in beds they tell on the Terazije. A schoolteacher handed out fancy colored photos of Tito to her pupils, and next day asked the children what they had done with them. One after another, the kids got up and said they had tacked them on the walls. All except little Jan.

"Why didn't you hang up the picture of our leader?" the teacher asked.

"I couldn't," said the child. "The other four families in our room have the walls. We live in the middle."

* * *

In London, before setting out for the Communist countries, I was received by Jacob Malik, Soviet Ambassador to Britain, at the plush embassy near Kensington Palace. I mentioned that after Russia I planned to visit Rumania and the other satellites.

"Mr. Rose," said Malik sternly, "Russia has no satellites."

"I get it," I said. "Rumania has a two-party system and all the peasants have Ford convertibles."

Nary a muscle moved in Malik's face. "Russia," he repeated, "has no satellites . . ."

Six weeks later, when our plane set down at the Bucharest airport, the first thing we noticed was a statue of Stalin almost as tall as the terminal. And as we limoused into town, we saw dozens of blow-ups of Khrushchev, Bulganin and Voroshilov.

Politics and potshots aside, our reception in Bucharest was the warmest we encountered on our trip. A contingent from the Ministry of Culture was at the airport to greet us and we were escorted to the Athenee Palace Hotel, ensconced in a four-room suite and informed we were guests of the government.

Tomorrow: Conclusion of Bucharest Experiences.

Garden Notes

Get Cracking On the Shovel

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One of the secrets of good gardening is to recognize and do the jobs which want doing at the time when they should be done. This is particularly true towards the end of the season.

As a crop ceases to be productive, there is no point in hanging on to it—for example, to a row of peas or beans in the hope that there may be a few more odd pods for this practice simply encourages the spread of mildew through the garden, and delays the conditioning of the soil for next year's cropping.

CLEAR SPACE

The space they occupy should be cleared, and if it is not required immediately for another crop, it should either be raked over and sown with a green manure crop for turning in later on, or it should be dug over as deeply as possible as an instalment of the forthcoming fall digging.

It is a fallacy to think that the whole garden must be clear so we can "get a good run at it." The digging you get done now will mean that much less to do later on, when the weather and soil conditions may not be so kind.

DIG ACROSS

It is a good idea to dig across the usual line of digging occasionally. This is common practice in farming, and when the shape of his field will permit, the good farmer will plough the length of his land one year, and across it the next.

The haulm of peas and beans may be chopped up and dug in, along with any other spent crops, while that curse of the pea rows, chickweed, can be skimmed off the surface and turned in deeply before it has a chance to scatter its seeds all over the place. It seems to me that one of the principle benefits of fall digging lies in the control of weeds.

CUT OFF HAULM

In clearing the peas and bean rows ready for digging, it pays to cut off the haulm at soil level rather than to pull up the vines. The roots will be covered with little knots or nodules, each one containing a colony of beneficial bacteria which manufacture plant food from the air. These should most certainly be retained in the soil.

While the vines themselves may be dug in as is, I have always found it a bit awkward to get long lengths of vine decently buried. I prefer to bundle up the spent vines and chop them up fairly small, using an old machete and a chopping block. These bits spread evenly over the soil, can be dug in with the greatest of ease.

RESIDUE NOT ENOUGH

The residue from your vegetable crops will not be sufficient to make good all the losses of humus and nutrients from your soil. After all, a considerable portion of what your soil has produced has been carried in to the kitchen and consumed. This deficit should be made good by dressings of manure or other bulky organic matter now, plus chemical fertilizers in the spring.

If manure is not available, it is best to put the spent crops on the compost heap and delay the digging until early spring while you grow a green manure crop. A few handfuls of rye—the grain, not rye grass—will germinate readily and will have made good bulky growth by next March.

Homes for Aged Plan

Scurrah Not Indifferent, He's Interested—Mooney

To imply that Mayor Percy Scurrah is not interested in aiding a low-rent housing project for aged persons is "unfair and unjust," Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney said yesterday.

The mayor and city council were criticized Wednesday night by the Victoria Carpenters' Union for not giving Harriet road property to the Senior Citizens' Campaign Council for the project.

The union approved a letter to the Victoria Labor Council, "if the facts are as reported," saying in part:

"A few months ago the mayor was very much in favor of aiding this project, but apparently has changed his mind while seemingly supporting the Kiwanis project."

This criticism, Acting Mayor Mooney said, was unfair because "the reason there is any hesitation at all is that we have been offered a good price for this property. The mayor thinks other city-owned property can be found.

"The mayor is much interested in the elderly citizens of our town."

By telephone from Penticton, where he is attending the annual meeting of the Union of B.C. Municipalities, Mayor Scurrah said much the same thing.

Mayor Surrah said he remained of the opinion that if the Harriet Road property could be sold at a good price, it should be sold, in the interests of Victoria's taxpayers.

But, he said, he still wanted to help the Senior Citizens' Campaign Council.

Mrs. F. H. Parsons, chairman of the housing committee of the Victoria Presbytery of the United Church, which has also sought free property for a similar housing project, defended the mayor.

"He would have been pleased to have given both of us property," she said. "It's simply his wings have been clipped by the Town Planning Commission and council."

Secretary-treasurer of the Victoria Labor Council, Percy Rayment, said the council has a "friendly feeling" towards the mayor and does not condemn him in connection with the Campaign Council project.

$31,000,000 Last Year

Liquor Boost Will Offset Falling Profits

The president of Seagrams, one of the world's largest distillery companies, said yesterday that it has increased wholesale prices because it is "just impossible to carry on" at the present rate of profit.

Samuel Bronfman of Montreal was quoted by a Vancouver newspaper as saying he didn't expect the firm's 1956 profit to be as high as it was last year—$31,002,109.

He hoped the price boost would help the company make a "recoup" on dwindling returns.

OTHERS FOLLOW LEAD

Meanwhile, Canadian Schenley Ltd. followed the lead of Seagram's and Alberta Distillers Ltd. in announcing price increases and spokesmen predicted other major distillers would make similar announcements shortly.

All three companies blame higher costs of labor and materials for the increases, which apply in all parts of Canada.

In Victoria, liquor control board officials confirmed that the increase is on the producers' basic price rather than on the price of a bottle at the liquor store.

It was indicated that increases, which some persons had feared might be 50 cents a bottle, would be closer to 15 cents as a result.

Liquor control boards of the four provinces decided Tuesday to send a letter of protest to the companies.

The B.C. board has only disclosed that the highest price boost is 15 per cent. Increases may be considerably lower on most bottles because all types of liquor are involved.

The Montreal spokesman said the increase was the first since 1950 and the second since 1939. Since 1939, he said, industry labor costs have gone up as much as 400 per cent and material and handling costs have risen as much as 533 per cent.

He admitted retail prices have risen 100 per cent since 1939, but said this was largely due to increases in federal and provincial taxes.

In Winnipeg, chairman Bernard Halstead of the Manitoba Liquor Control Commission said retail prices will not increase "for the time being" because the commission has enough liquor in stock for the remainder of this year.

In Profits

Drink Made Millions

Profits of millions of dollars were made by both distillers and government in liquor sales last year.

Larger of the Canadian distilleries to give notice of increased prices, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams Ltd., showed a net profit of $31,002,109 in 1955 after income tax of $28,600,000 had been deducted.

MILLIONS MADE

Next largest Canadian distillers, Hiram Walker and H. Corby Distillery, showed net profits of $19,327,468 and $1,642,933 respectively.

Both companies show profits less than in 1954 but more than 1953. So far, neither has given notice of increasing prices.

Seagrams' profits dropped more than $4,000,000 from 1954 and almost $2,000,000 between 1954 and 1953.

Figures for the comparatively young Alberta Distillers and Canadian Schenley, branch of a United States company, are not available. Both have applied for increased prices.

B.C. Liquor Control Board also made money last year, showing an operating profit of $22,000,000 on liquor sales in 1955-56.

Third but silent party to huge profits is the Canadian government.

Where Money Goes

All and Sundry Take Cut When You Buy Your Bottle

Who gets how much when you lay $4.73 on the counter for a quart of "special" rye in British Columbia?

In brief, the distiller gets about $1 and the other $3.73 is tax.

Here is a break-down of why you pay the present price for your bottle:

Distiller's price was 80 cents to $1. Then add excise tax, 10 per cent federal sales tax and transportation totalling approximately $1.63 for a rough total of $2.63.

WATER ADDED

Obviously, that does not add up to $4.73.

After everything mentioned so far has raised the price, LCB steps in with its liquor-watering. Distiller prices quoted are set for a much more potent, bonded stock than B.C. puts on the shelves.

Then add mark-up.

Neither the government nor the LCB will go on record as to how prices are reached; but it is understood the rule-of-thumb mark-up is 70.8 per cent for hard liquor and 30 per cent for beer. And on top of it all, of course, goes B.C.'s 8 per cent sales tax.

Through a complicated formula of mark-up, distiller's prices, excise, transportation, federal and provincial sales taxes and water, LCB arrives at the $4.73 prices for your "26" of rye.

Now, get out a slide-rule and figure out how much a 15-to-16 per cent increase in distiller's price will cost the B.C. consumer. About 15 to 16 cents.

Trapped in Hold, Seamen, Ship Sink

IJMUIDEN, The Netherlands (UP) — A capsized Polish trawler sank off the Netherlands coast with 12 men aboard last night after trapping the seamen alive in a huge air bubble inside the hull for six hours.

The terror-stricken seamen could be heard beating frantically on the capsized fishing boat's hull until just before it slid beneath the rough waves of the North Sea 145 miles off the northwest coast.

Sister ships of the stricken trawler Cyranka stood helplessly by as the steel coffin went down with the trapped seamen.

The Norwegian vessel Tul Ulter, with steel-cutting equipment to open the hull and free the men, was still 55 miles away when the trawler went down.

But even if the tug had arrived in time, seamen said, it might have failed to save the Poles.

The Cyranka's sister ships called for help after the trawler turned turtle in rough seas. They plucked five of her crewmen from the waves and took one off the overturned hull making six in all.

The 12 men were kept alive in a mammoth air bubble which also served to keep the overturned ship afloat, radio reports from the sister ship Mourekawala said.

The Mourekawala said it feared an attempt to cut through the half-inch steel hull might let the air escape and sink the vessel before the trapped men could get out.

In Saanich police court, Jack Gilbert Lewis, Central Saanich Road, was fined $250 after he pleaded guilty to impaired driving. Magistrate Hall remanded for a week consideration of whether the man's licence should be suspended.

Allan R. MacDonald, Gordon Head army camp, pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $35. Stuart W. Palfrey, 4200 Glanford, was fined $40 and his licence was suspended for the same charge.

Hees Drops Out, Favors Diefenbaker

TRAIL (BUP) — A prominent contender for the national leadership of the Progressive Conservative Party withdrew from the race yesterday in favor of "harmony and unity" within the party.

George Hees said he would "strongly urge" John Diefenbaker to run and would support him if he did.

The official choice was due to be made at a leadership convention to be held in Ottawa in December.

Hees said: "At this very critical time in the life of our party . . . it is of very great importance that the man chosen to be our leader should have the widest possible experience coupled with a deep understanding of the problems which are facing the nation today."

Hees said that because of Diefenbaker's "very great achievements in public affairs," he would make the best possible leader for the Conservatives.

A Dismal Epilogue

SO short is public memory nowadays in the rapid succession of "issues" that the great pipeline debate of only a few months ago seems almost forgotten—except perhaps in the plans being made by opposition parties for next year's federal election. Yet in the short time that has elapsed since the Liberal government forced its pipeline legislation through the House its main excuse for trampling on the rights and traditions of Parliament has been exploded.

The Alberta-to-Winnipeg section had to be completed this year and only the Trans-Canada Pipe Line Company could do it, Mr. Howe informed the House. Though the need for this urgency was never clearly explained, Parliament was instructed to accept it without question and to ratify the government's deal with the company without question. Mr. Howe led the House to believe—though he later declared that such was not his intention—that Trans-Canada had the pipe for the job, and that no other company had or could obtain supplies in time to lay the line within the all-important deadline.

Unfortunately for Mr. Howe the United States steel strike quickly revealed the fact that Trans-Canada had neither the pipe on hand nor any assurance as to when it could expect delivery. All the company had were some options, rendered physically worthless while the strike was in progress. This train of events has forced from the government the humiliating admission that Trans-Canada cannot complete the line this year. The government's excuse is that the company lacks the necessary pipe because of the strike; but back in May and June—while the government was stifling Parliament and playing ducks and drakes with the rules; while its subservient supporters were yielding unquestioning obedience to Mr. Howe's dictatorial whims; while the prime minister sat silently watching the rights of Parliament being tramped on—there was no mention of any possibility of the government's favorite falling down on its contract.

To achieve something which has turned into failure the government was willing to throw the rights of Parliament out of the window. Now along with them have gone Mr. Howe's promises and pledges, and to all appearances the government is quite unconcerned. It is a dismal chapter in Canadian political history.

Three into One

BECAUSE of the complex and interlocking nature of modern defence and warfare it is occasionally suggested that instead of three separate armed services there should be only one. Apart from the militant operative aspect, it is argued that supply problems would be easier handled, that unified administrative practice would be beneficial and that as a result there could be more economy of manpower and of money. It is an attractive thesis, but not as easy or as practical as it sounds. Turning the navy, army and air force into the "triphibian" component of Churchillian parlance would not alter their diverse needs and responsibilities.

No large industry or business enterprise functions in one channel; of necessity there is a splitting into separate specialized departments to prevent confusion and induce efficiency. Nor is it possible for experts in one branch of knowledge to be equally competent in another. The military services are not different in this respect. Modern warfare has become so complex in fact, even if unity of effort in combined actions is more important than ever it was, that call him what one will the sailor's, soldier's or airman's functions would still necessitate a division to suit the differences concerned. One name might cover all three services but their technical and supply exigencies could not be lumped into one.

The result would be that except in a titular sense there could in essence be small change from the present system, and human nature being what it is these necessary sub-divisions would soon solidify into the equivalent of the existing separately identified army, navy and air force. None of this burks the point of economy with respect to the "tails" that might currently be too large. These are the administrative departments which if not carefully screened take too big a bite out of an armed service's main essential—its fighting force. It may well be that in the Canadian defence set-up they loom out of proportion, but the cure lies in taking each of the armed services to task and imposing a strict streamlining of their efforts. Merely to put them ostensibly under one head and organization would effect little. Because of the triple separation their duties, training, techniques and supply make imperative, there would remain three "tails" and not, as supposed, one.

The Basic Price Control

THE law of supply and demand has been determining values for a long time and it is likely to continue doing so. Let laws, regulations, tariffs and cartels be what they may, in the last analysis it is public demand or the lack of it which establishes the flow of trade. Buying habits, like the moods of individuals, alter. For a time the public may pay whatever is asked of it for what it seeks, based primarily on its ability to sell its own services at an equivalent value. It is not the "price index" as such, but the actual buying weight of money which establishes the level; and the public has first say in what that weight is to be.

In this sense, the individual sets a value on the money in his own pocket. He can let it go easily, or make it buy a just weight in return. While this is the individual's choice, it is the sum of all individual choices which determines the "trade-in" value of money. Every sale is an exchange of something desired mutually. One agrees that necessity often forces the public into choices it would not perhaps make voluntarily. On the other hand, the public has both the first and the final determination of all values which can be expressed in terms of human needs or desires. It need not buy.—Inflation has many technical causes, but the fundamental one still is rooted in the trading sense of the public.

Economically at present Canada defies analysis in any direct comparison with older lands. Its fast internal growth, ebullient mood, and the ability to produce and sell at home and abroad for several years have given an expanding economy. That is not to argue that this condition will or could last forever. The best assurance of progress in Canada, and fundamentally anywhere else, rests in the considered judgment of the people. An economy can be stretched beyond the capacity of human endeavor, or it can be given an orderly, sound and progressive direction through the applied common sense of every individual in the land. The choice is not in some remote chancellory, but in the individual mind and heart.

Long Range Bid for Power

By K. C. THALER
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP) — Communist diplomats are boasting that the West will be ousted from the Middle East "in a matter of a few years at the most."

The Iron Curtain diplomats said the West would first lose its hold on Middle East oil interests and then would be ousted from the military bases that dot the strategic area.

The diplomats, gloating over the Anglo-French Suez troubles, said freely in private talks they could predict all Middle Eastern oil installations would be nationalized in a few years.

Then the military bases would go one by one, the diplomats said.

However, the West still would be able to buy oil from sovereign governments on a "business-like basis," but would have to compete with other potential customers, presumably Russia and the satellites, they said.

* * *

The Communist predictions, coming in the midst of the explosive Suez crisis, sounded a warning to the West on the scope of the Kremlin's new Middle Eastern strategy.

Western diplomats considered it an indirect confirmation of growing suspicion that Moscow has decided to go all out to consolidate its foothold in the Middle East.

But first the West would have to be ousted, creating a military and political vacuum. This would provide the Soviets with a basis of operation and penetration, Russia policy experts suggested.

These experts believed the Kremlin's mid-East policy has undergone a marked change since the visit to London last April of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev.

* * *

At the London conference with Prime Minister Anthony Eden the Soviet leaders refused to "go easy" in the Middle East and refused to recognize Britain's vital interests, including oil.

Moscow, under its so-called peaceful co-existence policy, soft-pedaled its moves in the Middle East for a brief period. But Suez provided tremendous potentialities too promising to be missed.

Diplomatic dispatches said all indications behind the Iron Curtain in recent weeks pointed to a revised Kremlin approach.

The Soviets say Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser does not make it easy for the Soviets to get a firmer hold on Egypt now; but they were reported confident they will get it later, if only through Egypt's increasing economic dependence on the Communist world.

* * *

Moscow also appeared confident that if Egypt fell into the Communist fold the other Arab nations would follow. With this move, Moscow was reported to believe, will come collapse of the five-nation Baghdad pact.

But the Soviets wish to avoid a head-on collision with the West and short of this will go all out, diplomatic sources said.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

IT IS a happy circumstance that intense interest in a subject is like a magnet. Researchers know all about this. When you have a bee in your bonnet it seems to stretch out an antenna that brings grist to your mill. Without undue effort you are enabled to add to your store of knowledge or of things.

I have long been aware of this and it happened to me again recently in a San Francisco bookshop. I was, of course, browsing around, being of the ilk that never newly visits a city without sampling bookland. If ever I am lost I am easily found.

I had not entered the bookshop in question to see if my antenna would ting but only on general principles. That is all a book lover ever needs; an open door and lots of enticing shelves and tables. On the latter, you know, usually lie the bargains.

* * *

It is surprising though how many books one can look over without the urge either to possess or read. Possession and reading are not the same thing, remember. A book hound may be a collector and not a reader—rows of beautiful but uncut volumes sadly line many a private library — although I like to think I am myself catholically disposed in this respect.

In one shop I commented to a stately lady on the fruitlessness, sometimes, of book searching and she agreed; she had been up and down the shelves for an hour and more and found nothing to her liking. Book lovers, I fear, are pernickety people.

Anyway, getting back to Parnassus, there I was in the city you never call "'Frisco" if you have respect for native taste, idly ranging the book titles. And then my antenna sung: A precious volume on a subject dear to my heart!

It was of a nature, too, that made it surprising to find across the line. Actually books are like music, universal, and there was no basis for surprise, as well I knew. But I was sufficiently intrigued to ask the bookseller how he acquired it, since the subject was not one likely to interest many Americans. The answer of course, the obvious one, was that he supposed he had bought some expatriate's library.

* * *

He was a courteous gentleman, incidentally, who on learning where I came from discoursed aptly on his one and only visit, so far, to Victoria. He thought our fair city a gem. I must report I made haste to say in return that I thought San Francisco delightful, and this was not mere courtesy. It is one of the most fascinating places I ever visited. And henceforth it will have a special place in my affections because it added to the nourishment of the bee in my bonnet.

Much farther south, in another place, I again felt a ping on my antenna, although this, like my browsing, was on general principles and unrelated to my special fetish. It came when I gazed—through a glass—at a first folio Shakespeare. I must confess that wild notions jumped unrestrainedly to mind—after all chaps of my blood managed once to remove the Stone of Scone — but the uniformed guard in the room compelled me to but a fond, lingering and tame farewell.

Later on that evening I was standing at the corner of Hollywood and Vine—as a matter of fact it actually was one in the morning—and I would tell you what happened except that my space has gone and you might grow suspicious about my night life and wonder what on this occasion it had to do with books. And since the answer would have to be "nothing," I had better reel in my antenna.

Letter from London

Unimaginative Phone-Cable Rates

By RICHARD L. THOMAS, Daily Colonist Correspondent

AFTER having experienced the astonishing technical efficiency of telephone communication between Britain and Victoria, I find myself wondering why the imaginative skill and genius of the engineers should not be matched by the financial experts who control the operation of the cable.

The Atlantic cable has come through as a resounding triumph and one of the truly great technical achievements of the age. In simple terms it means that in normal times, at any period of the day or night, I can pick up a telephone in any part of Britain and speak to any telephone in Canada within a matter of minutes as clearly as I can speak to my next-door neighbor. By means of one cable, studded with repeaters which are a marvel of electronic ingenuity, 35 of us can be talking to different people at the same time.

It is the cumulative achievement of American, Canadian and British engineers. The essential equipment has been made on both sides of the Atlantic and knitted together into a staggering piece of wizardry. What a pity that the financial controllers cannot show a similar faith as the engineers!

* * *

We have referred already to the anomaly of charges for calls from Britain—that it costs me 25 per cent more to telephone British Columbia than any other part of Canada or the United States. But that is part of the story.

The financial controllers, the administrators and civil servants now hold the destiny of the engineers' achievement in their hands. They have decided that if the transatlantic cable is to make a profit it will have to take not less than $11,000 a day in revenue—something over $4,000,000 a year. Provided it takes that amount of money it will meet all operating costs, depreciation, maintenance charges and the eventual replacement of the cable plus interest on capital. The total annual charge is equivalent to 10 per cent of the capital investment but allows, of course, payment for services at both ends of the cable.

The interesting point is that at the present charge of approximately $2.80 a minute from anywhere in Britain to anywhere in the United States or Canada (except B.C. for which please add that 25 per cent) and with 35 simultaneous conversations, the whole of the revenue necessary for profitable operation can be earned in two hours a day if all circuits are occupied. The British post office points out that the calculation is theoretical because circuits are needed for service calls and that allowance must be made for delays for which the subscriber does not have to pay, but on a completely practical operating basis they say that the cable will pay if 80 per cent capacity is maintained for less than three hours a day. They also agree that London and New York business hours overlap 2½ hours a day with comparative overlaps in Eastern Canada.

British Columbia just misses a business time overlap. Allowing that an average office opens at 9 a.m. in Britain the simultaneous time in B.C. is 6 p.m. during summer time here and 5 p.m. other times.

* * *

The financial controllers have decided in effect that charges shall be based on the assumption that only a fraction of the capacity of the cable will be paid for during each period of 24 hours. It seems to be an unimaginative restraint. In simple language it means that provided the cable was occupied to the extent of 80 per cent for three hours a day the remaining 21 hours could be utilized free of charge and still a profit would be shown.

It suggests that the routing of calls has been made without a vestige of imagination or any proper appreciation of the potentialities. Put another way, if charges were halved it would need six hours at 80 per cent to make a profit, and if reduced to a quarter of the present rate it would need 12 hours. The potentialities are enormous if the administrators would think about it.

The opportunity of making a call across the Atlantic for the equivalent of say $2.50 for a three-minutes' chat would encourage social contacts, and at that price few people would begrudge having to get out of bed at an unearthly hour on one side of the Atlantic or the other. As things are the social call has been priced off the line and the financial controllers seem determined to limit the facilities to very urgent business contacts.

Granted that a solid half-hour's business talk costing $75 might save a trip across the Atlantic for someone, it seems a pity that some effort is not made to encourage social talk during off peak periods. The present 25 per cent cut in rates for half the day seems grossly inadequate. A maximum rate during the business hours overlap is of course irresistible to the financial controllers, and they could possibly justify the 25 per cent rate for a couple of hours each side; but after that it should be not more than half-rate with a quarter-rate social inducement at the least convenient times when the cable is likely to be least in demand. It would still allow for a fabulous profit on a year's working.

There is an indication that the administrators are optimistic because they have a second cable in the planning stage—one capable of transmitting a television program without interference; plus additional telephone and telegraph circuits—but they seem hardly to be matching the punitive nature of the charges with their planning initiative. With a little encouragement it should be possible to interest more than 1,500 people in Europe or America to talk to their opposite numbers each day. There are something like 1,000,000,000 potential customers.

Third-Degree Survey

(From The Ottawa Journal)

THE CNR has had assembled a rather disconcerting report on the United States tourist's attitude to Canada, revealing the criticism that we don't have enough first-class food and accommodation, that Canada isn't different enough to be exciting and that there's nowhere to go for fun in the evening.

This, naturally, is good for us, but we were shaken by what Mr. W. R. Wright, CNR director of public relations, said about the method used in gathering this view of Canada:

"The main tool of our motivation survey was what the psychologists call the depth interview. It is a conversation stimulated by a trained interviewer along pre-defined lines and usually lasting, in our case, for over an hour. In addition, other well-recognized psychological testing techniques were employed. The data thus assembled were studied and assessed by trained psychologists."

If someone talked to us for an hour about our feelings towards the Riviera or even Banff, probing into our subconscious mind, stirring the cold ashes of memory, we'd be either befuddled or plain hostile and our evidence wouldn't be worth a hoot even if we were laid on a psychiatrist's couch.

Labor unions in the U.S. suggest a six-weeks' vacation. This would mean that instead of driving home all night after 14 days and starting to work tired out the next morning, you could drive home all night after 42 days and start work tired out the next morning.

Or GREGORY CLARK

FOR Canadians in the north and west it is hard to believe that quite an art, science and industry is growing up in the older parts of Canada in respect to farm woodlots. A good deal more than half of Canada's lumbering is now done west of the Rockies. There, permanent lumber mills involving hundreds of millions of investment are in fixed locations; and an apparently limitless supply of noble timber is brought to them.

But today in the east, in the old settled regions where farm woodlots survive despite the insatiable axe-swinging of a century, the value of lumber has occasioned some serious thinking and, in recent years, a sudden awakening. The sawmills in fixed locations, after many ups and downs, are now wooing the farmers for their trees. Gypsy portable sawmills journey through the countryside, setting up, like itinerant preachers, wherever they see prospects. And the forestry authorities of the provinces are appointing foresters specially trained in the problem of farm woodlot cropping to join forces with the agricultural representatives in preaching forest conservation in 10-acre woodlots.

A struggle is developing between the forestry experts and the log buyers. To keep the sawmills in operation, whether the fixed ones or the portable, log buyers are searching the farm woodlots and persuading the farmers to sell trees before they are at their prime growth. The foresters want the trees studied by the farmer as he would study a steer or a field of wheat. Trees have been of so little concern to farmers for three generations that any idea of them as a crop to be brought on like any other produce is foreign. They find it hard to believe that another 10 years' growth will add 100 per cent to the value of a tree. Farmers think in one-year cycles as a rule, or two or three. Log buyers think in cycles of a week or a month, in terms of feeding a sawmill and paying wages. Foresters think in cycles of 20, 40, 80 years. The conflict of the three points of view is interesting, and will be worth watching over the next few years. For in those few years the value of all things wooden is going to increase in something more than calculated ratio to most other factors in the cost of living. All over the earth, we are consuming wood like termites.

Please excuse to trouble you at your worthful time for daily publishing, but we have very keen desire to contacts with your good reader which we can hardly evade out of our heart in these day.

At present, Japan is isolated in the Far East, especially since last Great War, but young generation are trying to do everything to regain friendship based on deep understanding. And this is the very reason why I am writing to you now.

We have an organization named Youth Council for International Good Will Contact with the purpose of promoting international friendship, and the council is functioning in distributing every material which may give us the chance to study of your country and to start friendly contacts with your good people directly. At our request they have given us with the name of your good office, so here I am, yes, here are so many young people who are desiring to learn of your country through correspondence exchange, as well as other mailable materials which can be helpful for mutual understanding, including books, view cards, painting work, stamps and etc.

This is really our sincere desire. But if it would be the case that you can't afford the precious space for your trouble on your worthful paper, please pass this letter to any local school (secondary school desired) which you may judge that the student like to reply for my letter.

Expecting your cordial attention on this note, yours very truly

Bringing Up a Child . . .

Mrs. Parker's letter in Tuesday's Colonist appeared to me as plain common sense. Especially did I agree with her on the subject of co-education — unsatisfactory in more ways than one.

How many times do we hear it asked, "Whose fault is it that the word 'teenage' has unpleasant associations?" Largely to blame is the modern idea of letting children bring themselves up. Like all other young creatures they must be taught and trained, and that cannot begin too early.

We have heard again and again that children must be shielded and coddled and protected from the due rewards of their own misdoings. We have been warned of the dire results of "inhibiting" and "frustrating" them. As they go through the world the young people will encounter plenty of both and they had better get used to the fact in early years. If we taught them to be more self-reliant in facing reverses and disappointments there would be fewer suicides by those who cannot face up to things as they are. It is rarely those who have had a sound upbringing that give in and cannot take it.

Teen-age trouble begins early, when parents allow their children to rudely answer grown-ups back, strike and kick their mother without even being checked; when they can disobey without punishment — that is the beginning of the trouble; also when they are, as children, allowed to break and destroy with no correction. What many people ignore or only smile at in a child becomes anything but a smiling matter as these unpleasant traits increase with adolescence, until with many people the teenager is avoided at all costs.

Not All Fools

Where in this wide world does your correspondent of Sept. 30, Mrs. M. H. O'Brien, get her statistics crossed, when she states we have majority rule in this last election accounting, and still conclude that we have a democratic or popular government at the same time?

It all must be in keeping with the so-called Social Credit way of thinking, as stated by one of their devotees at one of their prolific banquets: "Statistics are to the politician what the lamppost is to a drunkard, something to lean against, but not for illumination" — one of the many myths of the so-called Social Credit cult.

Does the writer know that 54 per cent of the electorate of British Columbia — not all fools, knaves or idiots, we hope — showed quite plainly that they did not want a so-called Social Credit government?

WINDSOR, Ont. — When Alex Berki, 77, left his native Chicago he made sure he had enough loose change with him for the journey—$20.043 to be exact. He was picked up by Windsor police as he wandered downtown. Amazed police counted Berki's "roll." "We couldn't believe it," they said.

HOLLYWOOD—A bench warrant was issued yesterday for the arrest of singer Dick Haymes for failure to show up at an alimony hearing. One of Haymes' former wives, Nora Eddington Haymes, charges he is $12,150 in arrears on his $100 weekly alimony payments.

Parking Lots Still Sought

"Parking facilities can be built above ground and below ground," Victoria Labor Council reminded city council's public works committee Wednesday night.

The committee, in a letter to the labor council, had said that the only city-owned lots within a three-quarter-mile circle are those where the city hall and No. 1 fire hall now stand and a few rock-covered lots not suitable for parking.

At a previous meeting, the labor council had urged the city to provide parking facilities downtown to meet a growing shortage of parking space.

Strong Steels Keep Market On Up-Side

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market rallied in the last hour Thursday to avert a moderate decline and post an irregular advance amid the most active trading in two weeks.

Steels were the stronger issues among industrials while papers, despite a two-point gain by Crown Zellerbach — refining oils and constructions were weaker.

Strong stocks included Algoma, up two points, Canadian Bank of Commerce and Stelco. Shawinigan lost 2¼ points and Great Lakes Paper 1½.

Noranda lost 1⅛ points in senior base metals and International Nickel a point to hold back the section's index.

Uraniums were a bit weaker with 15-cent losses going to Northspan and Pronto. Consolidated Denison slipped 10 cents. Gunnar was up ¼ while Bicroft added 10 cents.

Consolidated West Pete. off 45 cents, and Canadian Atlantic, off 40 cents, were among the weaker Western oils. West Maygill lost 20 cents. Canadian Prospects added 25 cents and Triad 20 cents.

Nickel Turns Lower

MONTREAL (CP) — Industrial prices closed thoroughly mixed on Thursday in active trade on the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges.

Base metals were easier as International Nickel and Noranda dropped 1½. Algoma jumped two points in the steels. A mixed paper section showed Powell River up ¾ and Fraser and Great Lakes down a point.

B-A, Imperial and McColl were all off ½ in the refining oils.

Mines were narrowly better with Quebec Smelting, Merrill Island, and Indian Lake up under five cents. Canuba was a small loser.

Volume Drops

NEW YORK (UP) — Stock volume fell off to a new low since Aug. 31 while prices moved irregularly.

Net changes held in a small area. The market resisted selling that developed in a few sections. Its ability to hold near the recent high brought in some buying and short covering before closing time.

As a result net changes generally were very small. The major groups lost small amounts on average.

Losses of a point or more included Barber Oil, Cerro de Pasco, Crucible Steel, Hercules Powder, International Paper, Kansas City Southern, National Lead, Owens Illinois Glass, Reynolds Metals, Richfield Oil, Westinghouse Electric and Wilcox Oil.

Rails moved in a narrow area with small gains in a few leaders.

Inland Gas Lower

VANCOUVER — Inland Natural Gas weakened 37½ cents to $7⅛, but oils were generally firm. Pacific advanced 25 cents to $16¼ after trading at $16½. Madallion was up 25 cents at 3.60, while smaller gains were made in Vantor, Fort St. John and Chamberlain.

Mines where changed were slightly lower, with Canusa Cariboo down 5 cents at 20 cents the heaviest trader.

MacMillan and Bloedel found takers at $33⅜.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prices developed considerable irregularity at the close. This was produced by increased hesitation in U.S. prices. Trade was dull and commercial demand quiet.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included: United Kingdom 1,020,000 bushels, Austria 380,000, The Netherlands 175,000, Belgium 60,000 and West Germany a small lot.

Loan of Golf Clubs First Step Upward

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

Nigel Gunn is one of the big family of business men who have made a name for themselves after starting their careers in Victoria banks.

Now president of the Investment Dealers' Association, and a vice-president of a large Toronto investment house, Mr. Gunn first worked in the main branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce on Government Street.

When I met him yesterday he was en route to the bank to cash a cheque. "I hope they'll remember me," he said.

Mr. Gunn claims that the game of golf was a prime asset in moving him up the business ladder.

A member of the old Macaulay Point club, he was the only member of the bank staff who had clubs to lend a visiting bank dignitary on a visit to Victoria.

This led directly to his transfer to Toronto and subsequent advancements.

Born in Scotland, Mr. Gunn was educated at Monterey, Oak Bay High, Brentwood College and University School.

Other business leaders who began their careers in Victoria banks include John Proctor, president of the Imperial Bank and Allan Lambert, general manager of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

DON BIRNIE LEAVES

The oil industry in Victoria is losing, this weekend, one of its most popular members in Donald A. Birnie, Vancouver Island manager of Standard Oil of B.C.

"Big" Don starts Tuesday in a sales managerial position in the company's head office in Vancouver.

Although he has been here for only two years, Mr. Birnie is well known in the city and has just completed his task as co-chairman of the small firms canvas in connection with the current Community Chest campaign.

Before coming to Victoria, Mr. Birnie was for eight years Standard of B.C.'s sales representative in the Prince George area.

SHINGLE MILL SOLD

The shingle mill of Capilano Timber Co. Ltd. at Vancouver has been sold to Western Gypsum Products Ltd., who will use the site for a $3,500,000 plaster mill and gypsum wallboard plant.

Capilano will continue its shingle business at its New Westminster custom plant, while Western Gypsum will secure its raw material from Mexico by an automatic loading 17,000 tons ship.

Trading Stamp Ban Sought

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers today called for amended or strengthened legislation to stop sales promotion through trading stamps.

A resolution requesting the justice department "to examine the present legality . . . of trading-stamp sales promotion plans" was unanimously supported by some 80 representatives of the 16,000-member consumer group at closing sessions of its annual meeting here.

We Salute You, DOCTOR

The eyes of many people turn to Victoria where the doctors of British Columbia gather for their annual Clinical Sessions during the present week. To many people, the events taking place at Victoria promise hope of new medical victories against the many afflictions of the human body and mind.

As these medical advances are reported to the profession and to the world, many of us laymen tend to forget an important fact. We frequently are inclined to credit medicine's victories to some new "miracle" drug or to some revolutionary new technique—and these do deserve very great praise indeed. But what we may overlook is the fact that it is the physician to whom such a large share of the credit belongs. The new drugs and techniques are created to help the doctor and his patient. There it is that the doctor's knowledge and skill play their vital role.

That, in fact, is the ultimate aim of all of us who are associated with the health professions—serving the doctor and his patient. We in the voluntary health insurance field like to think that our work contributes to this goal, for health insurance frees the patient from much of his worry about the costs of his illness. And this peace of mind of the insured patient encourages him to seek needed medical care sooner, and to benefit more fully from his doctor's skillful treatment.

By trying to improve existing forms of health insurance, and by experimenting with new types—such as major medical expense insurance—the companies issuing health insurance are working continuously to match the remarkable progress of modern medicine. And by vigorously encouraging ever growing numbers of Canadians to avail themselves of these newer and improved coverages, we believe we are helping Canada's doctors to insure the continuance of voluntary medicine in this country.

Along with others on what might be called the "health team," we are proud to support the medical profession in a common objective: more and better health for more Canadians. And we are even more proud to salute the leaders of this health team—the nation's doctors—for the great strides they are making toward this goal.

Mother Burned Little Boy

Fire-Maimed for Stealing, Youth in Trouble Again

NEW YORK (UP)—A 16-year-old boy whose mother severely burned his hand eight years ago "to teach him not to steal" was in trouble again today.

The policeman chased the youths, who abandoned the car and fled. He trapped Vetter but the other boy got away.

Police said Philip Vetter Jr., stealing a car and trying to run down a policeman.

and an unidentified youth stole the car. A policeman flagged them down, but the boys suddenly started the car and swerved it at him.

Police identified Vetter as the nine-year-old youth whose mother held his right hand over an open gas flame in 1948 after she caught him stealing small change and cigarets from her purse.

The mother, Mrs. Geraldine Vetter, was sentenced to three years in jail for maiming her son. She served six months and then was paroled.

Young Vetter, who lost a finger and the use of his hand as a result of the burning, ran up to his mother after she was sentenced, crying, "I love her."

Mrs. Vetter, who failed in a suicide attempt in 1950 and was arrested for stabbing her husband with a paring knife in 1952, did not appear in court. She was reported sick.

Vetter's father has been convicted of burglary and his brother, Frank, is now serving a prison sentence.

Loblaw Eyeing Victoria

Victoria is under consideration by Loblaw Groceterias of Toronto as a site for a supermarket.

George C. Metcalf, president and general manager, this week outlined Loblaw's plans for enlarging the chain by including 32 new markets in the west.

Loblaw's has 183 stores in Ontario which last year exceeded $285,000,000 in sales, largest of any Canadian food chain.

NEWPORT, R.I. — City manager Irving N. Beck inspected the police department's three patrol cars and found all three in poor condition. The brakes on one would not pass a safety test.

Lloyds Suez Rate Cut Aim of Egypt, Russia

CAIRO (UP)—Egypt will ask Russia's help to form a new maritime insurance company that will undercut Lloyds of London rates for shipping through the Suez Canal, an authoritative foreign ministry source said yesterday.

Lloyds raised its insurance rates following Egypt's nationalization of the Canal July 26.

tian Soviet agency would insure canal cargoes for less and thus reduce the cost of canal transit.

He said six Egyptian experts will leave for Moscow soon to discuss the projected company with the Soviet Union. He said it would be 51 per cent capitalized by Egypt.

VEERING TO EAST

The plan as outlined would call "for "financial participation of the Eastern bloc countries," another sign of Egypt's veering from West to East in its economic relations since the beginning of the Suez crisis.

A dispatch from New Delhi said India's roving peacemaker, V. K. Krishna Menon, left last night for Cairo, and the United Nations. He was reported carrying a new Suez peace plan.

Diplomatic sources here said Krishna Menon would propose an "amended" plan to President Gamal Abdel Nasser and then take it to the United Nations. Details were not disclosed.

BASIS FOR HOPES

At a press conference in Budapest, Hungary, yesterday, Egyptian Undersecretary of State and Information Hussein Fauwzi said suggestions for solving the Suez crisis already put forth by Krishna Menon could be a "basis for further talks."

Egyptian authorities have cut off the local currency supplied to British shipping agents here because of Britain's sterling freeze.

The Egyptian action, taken as a retaliatory measure against the British blocking of Egyptian funds in the United Kingdom, has faced agents here with a financial crisis.

Victoria Club Opens New Season

An aggressive band of Victoria Cougars made their first start of the 1956-57 hockey season a winning one last night by whipping the Allan Cup champion Vernon Canadians, 5-1, at Nanaimo. Here, coach Colin Kilburn, extreme left, talks over some pre-game strategy with six newcomers and holdover defenceman Nelson Bulloch. Shown above, left to right, are, back row: Gordie Matheson, Larry Leach, Larry Berg and Lionel Heinrich. Front row: George Ranieri, Bulloch and Roy Partridge.—(Nanaimo Free Press photo.)

Aggressive Cougars Win, 5-1; Meet Canadians Here Tonight

By JIM TANG

NANAIMO — Victoria Cougars, showing a hard-skating and aggressive unit, opened their 1956-57 hockey season in promising fashion here Thursday night by trimming the Vernon Canadians, 5-1, before about 700 spectators at Nanaimo's Civic Arena.

[illegible] under new coach Colin Kilburn, the 1956 edition of the Cougars skated faster and had too much finish for the Allan Cup-champion Canadians as they rapped in two first-period goals and scored three times in the second period.

CANUCKS HERE MONDAY

Victoria hockey fans will get their first chance to see the Cougars in action tonight when the same two clubs provide he opposition in an exhibition game at Memorial arena. Cougars open their Western Hockey League season Monday afternoon against their traditional rivals, the Vancouver Canucks, defending coast division champions.

Although play was at times scrambly, much of it caused by early-season form, the clubs turned in a crowd-pleasing exhibition that proved a hard-hitting affair from start to finish. Sticky ice didn't help matters and stick-handling and passing were made difficult because the puck wouldn't slide.

While it's still too early in the season to draw any definite conclusions, one thing is certain. The Cougars are an aggressive team that won't back down from the opposition and in last night's game, they showed plenty of hustle.

PELLETIER STARRY

Marcel Pelletier, the colorful netminder who was second only to Vancouver's Ray Mikulan in Western Hockey League net-minding averages last season, again appears set for a big year. The agile Pelletier was outstanding in turning aside 26 shots and lost his bid for a shut-out when Don McLeod's blue-line drive bounced off Walt Trentini's stick into the net at 7.06 of the third period.

The hard-hitting defence, spearheaded by holdover Bill Dobbyn, should be sound and the Cougars came up with a new forward line of two rookies and hard-working Bruce Carmichael that showed great promise. And, of course, there's the potent attacking unit of Kilburn, Doug Anderson and Doug Macauley returning.

Newcomer Lionel Heinrich, a highly-rated defence prospect of the parent Boston Bruins, has speed and takes out his man well. Steady Bill Davidson and Nelson Bulloch, both holdovers, are the other two defencemen who Victoria fans will see in action tonight.

Carmichael, who is more at home at the left-wing position, combined well with centre Gordie Haworth and George Ranieri and the trio should account for a good number of goals this season. Carmichael, particularly impressed last night and topped the snipers with a pair of goals.

Ranieri, a tough forward who packs a hard shot and a solid bodycheck, picked up a pair of assists and also was in a couple of tiffs. The smooth Haworth made the play for one goal. Roy Partridge, another first-year player, also showed plenty of aggressiveness while playing on a line with holdovers Wayne Brown and Don Chiupka.

LEACH AT CENTRE

Anderson didn't see any action last night because of sickness and rookie Larry Leach filled in at centre. Kilburn, who looked sharp in his appearances on the ice, the new coach tried several combinations on power plays and to kill off penalties.

The Cougars' aggressiveness can be gleaned from the penalty statistics. Referee Ross Valliere had his hands full in keeping control and handed out 16 penalties, including three majors, and a misconduct to Labodia of Vernon.

Dobbyn, who will probably be the Cougars' policeman this season, picked up five minors, Ranieri had two minors and Partridge was given a major for a tiff with Labodia.

Lineups:

Victoria — Goal: Pelletier; defence: Dobbyn, Heinrich, Bulloch and Davidson; forwards: Haworth, Carmichael, Ranieri, Leach, Kilburn, Macauley, Chiupka, Brown, Patridge, Berg.

Vernon — Goal: Gordon; defence: Stecyk, McLeod, Schmidt; Labodia; forwards: Lowe, Harms, Trentini, Blair, King, Davison, Azur, Roche, Jakes.

Referee—Ross Valliere.

Bauer Makes Catch

Brooklyn Dodgers made things tough for the New York Yankees Wednesday by winning the first game of the world series, 6-3, while collecting nine hits off four pitchers. But Yankee outfielder Hank Bauer stopped the Dodgers on this play, making a fine catch near the right-field corner on a fly ball from the bat of Pee Wee Reese, the veteran Brooklyn captain. —(CPC)

Newk Gets His Chance Today To Erase 'Choke-Up' Stigma

By NORMAN MILLER

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UP)—Don Newcombe of the Dodgers wants to prove today, once and for all, that he is not a "choke-up" pitcher and that he can win "the big ones."

The "choke-up" charge has haunted big Newk for the past few seasons and there was a tinge of bitterness in his voice as he sat stoop-shouldered by his locker room stall and told how much it means to him to beat the Yankess in today's second world series.

"They say I choke up," he said softly, and he mouthed the phrase with the contempt that all ball players reserve for the most abhorrent item in their vocabulary.

"I dunno know why it is. I've pitched a lot of games and I've won a lot, but somehow here are people who never consider the games I pitch 'big' ones," he went on. "Why do they only call it a big game if I lose it?"

"That's why I want more than anything else to win today's game—for myself and for the club. It's going to make a big difference whether we're two games up or all even after today.

"And if that doesn't make it a big game, well, I guess I'll never pitch in one."

Newcombe, whose 27 victories this season makes him a leading candidate for both the National League most valuable player and the new pitcher award, fretted that the day's delay caused by Thursday's rainout may hurt his control.

Soon after the postponement was announced, Newcombe put on his uniform, went outside in the drizzle, and ran for a half-hour on the cinder track fringing Ebbets Field to keep his legs in shape.

RELIES ON CONTROL

"I don't know if this rainout will do me any good at all," Newcombe said after he returned to the dressing room perspiring freely. "You know, I rely a lot on my control and it's always best after I've had three days of rest. I've found that when I get an extra day's rest I often lose my sharp pin-point control.

"A pitcher gets in a groove," the big right-hander explained. "I follow a very regular pattern. I pitch one day, then lay off the next day, pitch batting practice the third and then I don't throw again on the day before I'm scheduled to pitch. I've found out that's been the best method for me all during my career.

"Of course, you never can tell. I might go out there today with that extra day of rest and pitch the best game of my career," he went on. "But generally that extra day of rest hurts me more than it helps."

Newcombe has faced the Yankees three times in World Series play and lost each time. In 1949, he lost the opener, 1-0, on a ninth inning homer by Tommy Henrich. He came back three days later and lasted less than four innings.

Last year he was troubled by a sore arm and was knocked out in the sixth inning of the opener. He never did any more pitching as the Dodgers went on to beat the Yankees in seven games.

That's why it means so much to him to win the big one and still those whispered taunts.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By Red Smith

NEW YORK—On the day before the 1949 baseball season ended, the Red Sox led the American League by one game and had two to play in Yankee Stadium. The Yankees had to win both games to take the pennant. That day, Joe DiMaggio spoke. The Yankees had played 152 games that summer and heard nothing from Joe, but this day he addressed them all as they started out of the clubhouse.

"All right, gentlemen," he said, "let's give it a little extra today."

They won that day and the next, of course, and beat the Dodgers in the World Series.

In 1937 the Yankees signed Tommy Henrich as a free agent, gave him $25,000 and sent him to Newark. He had played only seven games there, and was batting .440, when New York lost two straight to Detroit. In the clubhouse Joe McCarthy chewed them out.

"Hell's bells," grumbled Roy Johnson, the outfielder, as the manager stalked out, "that guy wants to win every game!"

He didn't intend that McCarthy should overhear, but Joe did. Without glancing back or breaking stride, the manager marched directly to the telephone. That's how Henrich became a Yankee and Johnson a member of the Boston Braves.

In Palmetto and Chattanooga

Several years before that, the Yankees trampled the Milwaukee Brewers by something like 19 to 0 in a spring exhibition in Palmetto, Fla. As the players waited on the bus for St. Petersburg, McCarthy climbed aboard, tossed one black look around and sat down next to a player who hadn't known him long.

"Well," the young man said brightly, "pretty good today, eh? Nineteen to nothing."

Savagely the manager turned on him.

"Pretty good? Against these bush league humpty-dumpties? We should beat 'em 29 to 0!"

In a clubhouse meeting before the 1941 World Series with Brooklyn, McCarthy asked whether any of the Yankees knew how to pitch to Jimmy Wasdell. Henrich knew Wasdell could be fooled by a change-of-pace, but Wasdell was his friend. They had come up together, more or less, through the minors, and Tommy wasn't going to blow the whistle. He and the rest were silent.

"Saw him four years ago in Chattanooga," McCarthy said. "Looked to me like he might have trouble with a change."

"Wasdell," Henrich told himself, "is a dead duck."

What Makes a Yankee

McCarthy is gone now, and Henrich and Wasdell and Roy Johnson and DiMaggio, and maybe these tales haven't any bearing on developments of this World Series in Ebbett's Field and Yankee Stadium. Then again, maybe they have. Maybe they suggest, in their small way, what it is that makes the Yankees the Yankees. Maybe they hint at the nature of the task that still faces the Dodgers.

Joe McCarthy did want to win every game, not entirely out of greed for victory but for a sounder reason reflecting the basic philosophy which has guided the Yankees for years. He believed that every baseball man's job was to play the game better than anybody else. If you lost a game, that meant something was wrong. Better find out what was wrong, and remedy it.

That is exactly the way Casey Stengel looks at it, the way George Weiss does, and Ed Barrow did before him. Like McCarthy, Stengel remembers what he saw in Chattanooga four years ago, and in Aurora, Ill., four decades ago.

People ask what makes a Yankee. Part of the answer, at least, is there in that attitude, deeply ingrained in every one of them. Going for the championship of the Bronx, Flatbush and Jersey City's Journal Square, they expect to win every game. By their reckoning, any World Series should be a four-game series. If it takes longer, it's a mistake. If they don't win at all, it's a scandal.

Yanks in Six

This is an important reason why professional price makers install the Yankees as favorites in any World Series, even against a club that whipped them the year before. The professionals can make mistakes of course. Mistakenly, they liked the Red Sox over the Cardinals in 1946 and they thought Cleveland would smash the Giants in 1954. Curiously with each Giant victory in '54 the Indians became stronger favorites for the next day's game. It was all over before anybody could accept the notion of four straight for New York.

Scarcely anybody will quarrel with the statement that the Dodgers won their pennant against sterner opposition than the Yankees met this year. That's one consideration. Another is that Brooklyn has some hot-and-cold guys, like Duke Snider and Gil Hodges. Hot, they might win it all, but baseball as the Yankees play it, is a chilling business.

The Dodgers are out in front but it's the Yankees in six, it says here. Brooklyn gets two tokens for the subway.

Casey Frets as Dodgers Rest; Plans Shuffle of Yank Lineup

One game down and anxious to get the New York Yankees back on the field, manager Casey Stengel indicated yesterday he'll bench first baseman Bill Skowron and third baseman Andy Carey today in an effort to find a winning combination in the second game of the world series against Brooklyn Dodgers.

Rain at Brooklyn yesterday postponed a world series game for the first time in five years and gave the Yankee skipper an extra 24 hours to indulge in his favorite hobby — lineup juggling.

"SOMETHING NEW"

"I may have something new today," the crafty Stengel said as he shook off obvious disappointment in the postponement that gave the weary Dodgers a welcomed rest.

"If I make any changes," he said, "it'll be with Billy Martin at third base and Jerry Coleman at second base in place of Martin. I also may go with Joe Collins at first base, leaving me Skowron to pinch hit.

By playing the veteran Collins at first base, Stengel would be inserting another left-handed batter against Brooklyn starter Don Newcombe. Skowron, a right-handed batter with a .308 season's average, went hitless in four trips against Sal Maglie in the opener Wednesday.

BREAK FOR DODGERS

Casey was disappointed that weather forced the postponement "because we don't need the rest." And he was emphatic in his opinion that the postponement was a break for the Dodgers. "Brooklyn needs the rest after that tough pennant race," he argued.

Most baseball men agree with Stengel that the rainout was a break for the Brooklyn club which had been forced to load extra work on Sal Maglie and Newcombe to beat out Milwaukee and Cincinnati in the final two weeks of the season.

Maglie, who turned in a great clutch performance in beating the Yankees, 6-3, in the opener, now probably will pitch the fourth game Sunday at Yankee Stadium and might even get a third shot at the New Yorkers if the series went the limit.

LARSEN TO START

There will be no change in Stengel's mound choice for today with right-handed Don Larsen, a 27-year old fast ball pitcher, serving them up against the Dodgers.

Larsen, who compiled an 11-5 season record, lost his only World Series appearance. The easy-going, 200-pounder started and lost the fourth game to the Dodgers last year, giving up five hits and five runs in four innings.

But he was the hottest Yankee pitcher during September, hurling four low hit games in his last four starts including a trio of four-hitters.

Larsen, who started his major league career with the old St. Louis Browns and was obtained by the Yankees from Baltimore in the winter of 1954, has had a spotty career.

After a bout of arm trouble in the 1955 season, the Yankees recalled Larsen from Denver in July and he played a big part in the Yankees' successful stretch drive to the pennant. But he was injured in an automobile accident last spring and didn't get into top form until mid-season.

Larsen, often over-weight, has been in the Yankee doghouse several times because of his lethargic attitude and only recently said he thought that "there's too much emphasis placed on the world series."

However, the Yankees will be forgetting his past attitude today and hoping that the moody righthander feels in the right frame of mind. They're anxious to catch up with the Brooks.

Normie Kwong Widens Lead Over Lunsford

REGINA (CP) — Normie Kwong of the Edmonton Eskimoes has widened his lead over Earl Lunsford of the Calgary Stampeders in the race for ground-gaining honors in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Statistics show the China Clipper with a net gain of 894 yards against 809 for the Calgary import.

Kwong has carried the ball 145 times, five more than Lunsford, for a 6.1 average. Lunsford is averaging 5.7 yards a carry.

Winnipeg import Bob McNamara has squeezed into third place with a net gain of 558 yards, one yard more than the total for Ken Carpenter of Saskatchewan Roughriders. McNamara has carried 91 times for a 6.1 average while Carpenter is averaging 5.2 yards on 106 carries.

Saskatchewan's Frank Tripucka is leading the passers in all departments. The Rider ace has a completion average of 58.3 per cent, making good on 137 of 235 aerials, for the most yardage—2,108.

Puerto Rico Athletes Barred From Olympics at Melbourne

The executive board of the International Olympic Committee Thursday barred Puerto Rico's athletes from the 1956 Melbourne games because of government interference and formally readmitted two other countries which had been dropped for the same reason.

Puerto Rico was removed from the list of competing nations because its national Olympic committee consisted of government appointees. At the same time the board restored to good standing the national teams of Argentina (other than rowers) and Turkey, which had previously been threatened with expulsion because of government interference.

However, Puerto Rico, working fast with the hopes of getting back into the good graces of the committee, immediately elected a new Olympic committee.

The board also over-ruled a British effort to change the designation of the Irish team from "Ireland" to Eire. There has been a long-standing dispute about this designation, arising from political claims over the sovereignty of Northern Ireland.

Some Players Forget They're Paid to Play Says Argonaut Coach

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP) — Coach Bill Swiacki of Toronto Argonauts shrugged off criticism Thursday about his handling of players and said there can't be any sentiment in professional football.

It was the first time the 34-year-old Big Four coach spoke up in defence of criticism directed at him by departing Argonaut import players.

"Many people don't understand professional athletics," he said in an interview.

"They think we have to keep players for sentimental reasons. It's ten tons that way at us. If the players aren't doing the job a coach has no alternative but to get someone who can."

Swiacki's comments were made following public denunciation of his coaching methods and his handling of men by tackle Billy Shipp, halfback Sam Baker and guard Mike Falls. The latest was Thursday when Falls, formerly with University of Minnesota Gophers, charged he had quit Argonauts "because I had an overdose of Bill Swiacki."

That was a switch from an announcement Tuesday that Falls had left the club to return to Minnesota to work for his master's degree. At that time he was quoted as telling Swiacki he figured he was not "doing myself or the club any good."

Thursday he was reported by Toronto Telegram columnist Bob Hesketh as saying that Swiacki had treated him "like a high-school kid."

WAS LEAVING ANYWAY

"I intended to cut Falls last week but decided to keep him for another game," Swiacki said.

"He must have anticipated my move because he came to me this week and said he was leaving. His decision saved me from announcing publicly that he would be cut. That was alright with me because I didn't want to embarrass him unnecessarily.

"I've yet to see a pro football player who didn't think he was unfairly treated after he was cut by a club. To satisfy their own ego players will say that they weren't given a fair chance to make the team.

"They criticize the coach. They make other excuses and, in short, put the blame on everyone except themselves. Some boys haven't the character to take criticism."

PAID TO PLAY

Swiacki added that some pro players forget that they are paid to play football.

"Pro football is a business and it doesn't matter whether the players like their coach or not. They are paid to play and they should know that they've got to produce if they expect to stick," he said.

Little Soccer Needs Players

The Little Soccer League will hold its final practice sessions Saturday before league play starts October 13, and officials have invited all youngsters 12 years of age and under to turn out Saturday morning at 10 for the workouts.

More players are still needed to fill out the teams at eight Victoria and district parks—Windsor, Lansdowne, Reynolds, Rullen, Hampton, Hobbs, Heywood Avenue and Central.

Minor Hockey Teams Get Aid from Cougars

Victoria Cougars will be backing the Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association teams to the hilt when the association's teams swing into action within the next few weeks.

Officials of the association have already received equipment from the Western Hockey League club and have the assurance that one of the Cougars will assist in coaching each team in the five minor hockey divisions. The Cougar club has donated 25 pairs of skates, four sets of goal pads, a set of sweaters, 13 pairs of gloves and over 50 pair of stockings to the association to be used where they are most needed.

At a recent general meeting Doug Fletcher was re-elected president, Cougar coach Colin Kilburn was named vice-president; Doreen Eade, secretary; Pete Holding, treasurer; and Walt Summerfelt, registrar.

Division presidents are Doug Bambrough, junior; George McPherson, juvenile; Bob Burrows, midget; Hugh Drybrough, bantam; and Flt. Lt. Red Bion, peewee.

Association teams have been entered and accepted in all divisions from pee wee to junior in the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association. This season the pee wees will enter a coast playoff with the mainland winners for the first time.

Registration for all boys 16 and under will be held at Memorial Arena, main entrance, Wednesday, October 10 at 3.30 p.m. Opening workouts for bantams and pee wees will begin October 13, from 7.30 to 10 a.m.

The following workout times will be used by the divisions throughout the season:

Bantams—Tuesdays, 7-8 a.m. Thursdays, 6-7 p.m.
Midgets—Tuesdays, 6-7 a.m. Thursdays, 7-8 a.m.
Juveniles—Wednesdays, 5:30-7:30 p.m.
Pee Wees—Saturdays, 7-10 a.m.

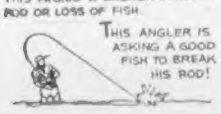
ROD ANGLES

HERE IS THE PROPER ANGLE TO HOLD A ROD WHEN PLAYING A FISH. THUS, THE SPRING OF THE ROD WILL ABSORB SUDDEN LUNGES OF A FISH AND IT TIRES HIM MORE QUICKLY. ALWAYS BE READY TO LOWER THE ROD TIP AND GIVE LINE INSTANTLY—ESPECIALLY IF FISH RENEWS FIGHT NEAR THE LANDING NET. THIS AVOIDS A BROKEN LINE OR ROD OR LOSS OF FISH.



THIS ANGLER IS ASKING A GOOD FISH TO BREAK HIS ROD!

IF A FISH HEADS FOR ESCAPE IN THICK WEEDS, ETC., LOWER ROD TIP TO AVOID DAMAGE. THEN BRAKE THE REEL AND HOPE!

Vamps Leave Ground Against Bays Tonight

Mayo Vampires, looking for their first victory of the season in the Victoria Intermediate Canadian Football League, will be able to use something besides a straight ground attack tonight in their second meeting with the Oak Bay Drakes.

Vampires were forced to stick strictly to the ground in their opening game with the Drakes because quarterback Wayne Henderson had injured his passing hand in practice. Drakes won the game, 40-18.

However, coach Ray Mitchell of the Vampires said last night that Henderson's hand is as good as ever and that the southpaw passer will be quarterbacking Vampires all the way in tonight's game. In the backfield with him will be fullback Pete Ash and halfbacks Leroy Bond and Charlie Bishop.

Mitchell also announced that he has signed two former Vampire players, flanker Vic Gallop and tackle Larry Lewis. Both are expected to see considerable action against the Drakes.

Game time is 8 p.m. at Royal Athletic Park.

Share Derby Honors

First prize in the fish-off of the recent coho salmon derby at Bates Beach was shared by Art Coles, left, of Vancouver, and Loran Simpson, right, of Courtenay. Rough weather off Bates Beach, which is a few miles north of Courtenay, hampered anglers in the fish-off but Simpson and Coles each came in with 15-pound coho to tie for the top spot. The derby winners, shown receiving their awards from George Bates, each collected a cheque for $150.

Jack Tighe Expected To Take Over Tigers

By MILTON RICHMAN

BROOKLYN (UP) — From out of the smoke-filled back rooms of world series headquarters came authoritative word Thursday that Jack Tighe will be named Detroit's new manager shortly and Kerby Farrell now has the "inside track" at Cleveland.

Here's the Detroit situation:

The economy-minded Tigers have offered Tighe, who has served as a coach with them the past two years, a salary of $18,000 to manage the club next season. Tighe received an estimated $11,500 this year and feels he should be worth $22,500 to the Tigers if they want him to manage.

COOLED INTEREST

Originally, the new owners of the Tigers considered Birdie Tebbetts of Cincinnati and, Al Lopez, who quit as Cleveland pilot last Saturday, as their top candidates. The Redlegs informed the Tigers Tebbetts wasn't available. Then the Detroit brass learned that Lopez had received $40,000 from the Indians this year and that figure cooled their interest considerably.

So with the Tigers offering $18,000 and Tighe asking $22,500, it all boils down to a matter of $1,500 that now stands between the two parties.

Tighe, 43, has a 13-year background as a manager in the minors and a reputation of being a good handler of pitchers. He has piloted Muagegon in the Michigan State League; Winston-Salem of the Piedmont League; Batavia of the Pony League; Flint of the Central League; Williamsport of the Eastern League; Toledo in the American Association, and Buffalo in the International.

THREE PENNANTS

He has won three pennants, two with Batavia, and one with Flint, and finished in the first division eight times during his 13-year hitch.

As for the Cleveland set-up:

Farrell, also 43 years old, undoubtedly will be named the "minor league manager of the year" for 1956. He led Indianapolis to the American Association pennant this season, swept Denver four straight in the playoffs and then went on to beat Rochester of the International League four games in a row in the recently-concluded "Little World Series."

Cleveland general manager Hank Greenberg has invited Farrell to New York to confer with him, it was learned, and there is every indication he will be offered the post which Lopez resigned.

EARNED CHANCE

The feeling among the players who served under Farrell at Indianapolis this year is that "he has more than earned a shot at the Cleveland job."

"Kerby is a little rough sometimes," said one of them. "But he has plenty of guts and there isn't a guy on our club who doesn't like him."

Farrell has had only limited experience as a big leaguer. He batted .268 as a first baseman for the Boston Braves in 1943 and also put in a year at first base for the White Sox, registering a .258 mark for them in 1945.

Flyer Coach Expects to Ice Rugged Club for WHL Chase

By LORNE BRUCE

EDMONTON (CP)—Norman (Bud) Poile, who has never missed the playoffs in his four years coaching Edmonton Flyers of the Western League, thinks he has a club this season that will "jell real quickly."

"We have a lot of good kids," said Poile, mentioning that several of his young players are seasoned pros.

"For instance centre Jerry Melnyk is only 23 and he has had three years' professional experience," Poile added. Melnyk was second in the scoring race last season.

TO BE MORE RUGGED

The young coach led Edmonton, a farm club of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, in 1954 when the club was in the playoff final and last spring Flyers were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs.

Poile, 33 and an NHL veteran, says the 1956-57 edition will be "quite a bit more rugged" than last season's team.

In goal Flyers have Dennis Riggin, a rookie who finished last season with Flyers after goalie Giles Boisvert was hurt.

CALLING UP JUNIORS

Poile says the young puck blocker is as well advanced for his age as was Glenn Hall, who graduated from Flyers and in his rookie season with Detroit last year won the Calder Trophy.

On defence Flyers have three sophomore pros, up from their farm club, Edmonton Junior Oil Kings. They are Lionel Repka, last season with Flyers, Gord Strate, who spent the 1955-56 season with Brandon Regals, and Frank Roggeveen, who joins after a season with New Westminster Royals.

The Edmonton rearguard also includes Al Arbour, whom Poile considers the best defenceman in the WHL, and Hugh Coflin, a 27-year-old veteran from Blaine Lake, Sask., who will be out two weeks with a bad ankle cut.

STRONG AT CENTRE

At centre Flyers are believed stronger than last season with Melnyk, and rookie Len Lunde, described by Poile as possibly the best junior in Western Canada last year.

Flyers' third centre is Bill McFarland who spent four years at the University of Michigan which last season won the United States intercollegiate title.

For right wing the club has scrappy little Eddie Stankiewicz, Chuck Holmes, Cummy Burton and Tony Leswick.

Stankiewicz, a doubtful starter in Flyers' first schedule game next Tuesday at Winnipeg, underwent an operation six weeks ago for knee-cartilage trouble.

CAPTAIN IN FIRST YEAR

Holmes is in his second year with the WHL club after being plucked from Oil Kings. Burton is a rookie who combines speed and ruggedness.

Leswick, an NHL veteran who learned his hockey at Saskatoon, is team captain although in his first season with Flyers after being brought back into the Detroit organization from Chicago Black Hawks.

At left wing Edmonton has Bill McCreary, Art Hart, and Don Poile, brother of the coach. Bud Poile says Flyers probably will get another left-winger from Detroit.

HAVE BOXER, TOO

McCreary, who went on a point-making binge for Saskatoon Quakers at the tail-end of last season, was drafted from New York Rangers by Red Wings.

Hart, a topnotch amateur boxer, was with Vernon Canadians when they won the Allan Cup last spring.

Coach Poile says the team plans to carry 18 players, at least early in the season.

Aunt Ambushed

Girl Murders To Avoid Punishment

OAKLAND, Calif. (UP) — A slender, 12-year-old schoolgirl confessed last night that she had ambushed her aunt and hacked her to death with an axe and a butcher knife because she feared punishment for losing a $5 bill.

Police said the victim, Mrs. Laverne Bunce, 55, was found sprawled in the bloody shambles of her kitchen by her husband, machinist Guy C. Bunce, when he returned home from work.

WORRIED ALL DAY

The girl, 12-year-old Patricia Corcoran of Mitchell, S.D., was standing on the washing machine in a small alcove near the kitchen door.

Homicide Inspector Logan Page said the girl told him she had been worried all day because she had lost $5 her aunt had given her for school expenses and she feared she would be punished.

She said she arrived home before her aunt and got a hand axe from the garage which she hid under her skirt while waiting for Mrs. Bunce to arrive.

KNIFE "BENT"

When her aunt returned, she told police, she waited until the older woman's back was turned and then struck her several times on the head. As Mrs. Bunce fell, she said, she dropped the axe and grabbed a kitchen knife which she plunged into the back. She said she finally stopped when the knife "bent."

Page said he learned the girl was one of nine children of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Corcoran, farmers near Mitchell. She came to California to live with her relatives several months ago.

Page said the girl was "very calm" and answered police questions readily.

"From her attitude," he said, "it appears she did something distasteful, but she shows no remorse."

Canadians May Work In France

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and France concluded Thursday an agreement covering a program of reciprocal employment of trainees.

The trainees of each country will be graduate apprentices in industrial, commercial, agricultural or professional fields taking training-employment in the other country for one year.

The number will be 25 for each country the first year, increasing by that number each year until 100 is reached.

Trainees may be either men or women but not aged over 30, save in exceptional cases.

Canadians wishing to work in France under the program should apply to the National Employment Service or Unemployment Insurance Commission in Ottawa.

Red Ballerina 'Magical'

Ulanova Toast of London

LONDON (Reuters) — A fragile, blue-eyed Russian woman of middle age has danced her way into the heart of British ballet lovers.

Galina Ulanova, 46, is the toast of London. Her hotel suite overflows with flowers and telegrams from admirers, and she is praised in all the newspapers. Nothing quite like it has been known since the great Anna Pavlova danced here a quarter-century ago.

With her performance at the Royal Opera House Wednesday night, Ulanova staked a claim as the world's greatest living ballerina.

"About the only ballerina outside Russia who could be matched with her is Britain's Dame Margot Fonteyn. And, after watching Ulanova and the Bolshoi theatre company in Prokofiev's "Romeo and Juliet," Dame Margot sobbed: "Never have we seen dancing like this. This is magical."

David Webster, administrator of the Covent Garden Theatre, spoke of "The miracle that is Ulanova."

The London Daily Mail proclaims in a three-column headline across its front page, "Ulanova conquers London." And of the Bolshoi presentation it uses the words "Outstanding . . . lavish . . . thrilling." The Daily Mirror headline reads, "A magical, fabulous night . . ."

Thursday this little woman, plainly dressed in a blue cardigan and grey skirt, sat contentedly knitting in her London hotel. She was not at home to reporters. For the timid Russian dancing star shies from publicity and the champagne-and-caviar circle.

After the Bolshoi triumph at Covent Garden Wednesday night there was a party for the dancers and prominent British guests. Ulanova passed it up and slipped away to her hotel.

Schweppes discovers Canada . . . and vice versa!

Two years and a few brief months ago, Schweppes roving emissary, Commander Whitehead, brought Schweppes Tonic Water to these thirsty shores.

Canadians tasted Schweppes delicious bitter-sweet flavour. Discovered Schweppervescence — those exuberant little bubbles that tickle the palate and delight the soul. And made it practically unconstitutional to make a tonic drink without Schweppes Tonic Water.

Schweppes carbonation sets an international standard. Schweppervescence is locked-in! It lasts the whole drink through. Schweppes bubbles never waste themselves exploding in the bottle . . . or even in your glass, as long as you don't disturb it. But when you drink Schweppes, you'll find each little bubble bursts upon your tongue, heightening the flavour of your tonic drink.

Remember, Schweppes Tonic Water costs no more than ordinary brands, and it is bottled here under the eagle-eye of Commander Whitehead from the original imported elixir.

$10,000,000 Alberni Power Project Tenders Will Be Opened Nov. 14

Tenders will be opened by the B.C. Power Commission Nov. 14 on a $10,000,000 hydro-electric power development [illegible]

Commission spokesmen told The Daily Colonist yesterday that the project, which will provide more power for the booming Albernis by the fall of 1958, is the first stage of a $20,000,000 plan first broached last spring.

[illegible]

The first stage includes a [illegible] dam at Elsie Lake [illegible] to Great Central Lake and finally a powerhouse at Great Central Lake with facilities for 15,000 horsepower.

Work is expected to begin next spring.

Original plan called for the first stage plus a dam at Great Central Lake, a tunnel and canal conduit carrying water to a powerhouse at Sproat Lake and a dam on Sproat River, near the lake, with a third powerhouse there.

[illegible]

The first stage would raise the level of Elsie Lake about 50 feet [illegible] the lake.

REDUCE FLOW

It will reduce the flow of the Ash River waters of which will be diverted by the Elsie Lake dam, but will not affect the levels of Great Central and Sproat Lakes.

[illegible] ensure a sufficient flow of water in the Ash River for fish [illegible]

If the water rights branch or fisheries department deems it necessary, the commission must provide a fish collection system at Great Central Lake powerhouse and tank truck fish to the Ash River for spawning.

Municipalities Endorse New, Higher Poll Tax

Victoria Fights Move But Saanich Approves

The six-member Victoria City delegation to the Union of B.C. Municipalities convention led a small group in opposition to the municipal services tax proposal yesterday.

In Penticton last night Mayor Percy Scurrah said he and five attending aldermen "just got wind of the darned resolution" when it was brought to the floor.

Terming the proposed annual levy "just the road and poll tax under a different name," the mayor told The Daily Colonist that "we could not vote for it" after bowing to public opposition to the old tax on non-property owners.

He said that despite the overwhelming endorsement of the resolution there is "still a good chance" the provincial government may not accept it for inclusion in the municipal act under draft.

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash said his delegation voted for the resolution because it was "generally felt" that municipalities should be permitted to tax "persons who are not now contributing for services."

The reeve said he "wasn't positive" whether the resolution called for a mandatory levy through the municipal act affecting every part of the province outside of Vancouver.

Reeve Ash said that one of the spokesmen for the pro-tax group was Cowichan Reeve C. A. P. Murison who asserted that federal and provincial governments have wider fields in which to draw taxation while municipalities are "limited."

Mr. Murison was quoted as saying that the proposed levy was a "tax that could easily be collected."

It was not known last night how Oak Bay and Esquimalt delegations voted on the issue.

Reeve Honored

REEVE C. A. P. MURISON

Elected first vice-president of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities yesterday at the 53rd annual meeting at Penticton was Reeve C. A. P. Murison of North Cowichan. Mayor J. E. [illegible] of Kamloops is the new [illegible] president. Executive members [illegible] Mayor Percy Scurrah of Victoria and Mayor Logan K. Jordan of Port Alberni.

Special Levy Plan Causes Surprise

A Union of B.C. Municipalities resolution calling for an annual municipal services tax to be levied against non-property owners, last night caught by surprise Greater Victoria aldermen and councillors who did not attend the Penticton convention.

Most asked for more time to study the proposal before commenting, but Victoria Ald. Millard Mooney and Saanich Coun. Eugene Diespecker thought that such an act would be the unpopular road and poll tax under a different name.

Delegates to the UBCM's 53rd annual convention recommended yesterday by a [illegible] vote that the [illegible] be written into the new municipal act which may be presented at the next [illegible] session.

It would require every non-property owning adult resident of B.C., with the exception of Vancouver citizens, to pay an annual fee for all services rendered by the municipality in which he lives.

No specific recommendation was made on how much the tax should be but the figure of $30 was suggested by several delegates. Vancouver would be exempted from the levy because the city operates under its own charter.

To Replace Others

Delegates voted in favor of the special tax as a source of municipal revenue in lieu of [illegible] poll, road and library taxes which are still on the statute books but are regarded by most municipalities as too cumbersome to enforce. The Victoria delegation, headed by Mayor Percy Scurrah, heatedly opposed the tax idea.

Ald. Mooney said he could not see the difference in this act from the road and poll tax which proved so unpopular with residents that the city is abandoning the levy in 1957.

"I personally can't see how such a tax can be imposed," he said. "Persons who rent houses or apartments are indirectly paying taxes through their rent."

"On the face of it without knowing the full details of the proposal, I would oppose it," Mr. Mooney asserted.

"Of course municipalities are always on the lookout for new sources of revenue," said Coun. Diespecker. "But this tax appears to be another form of the road and poll tax which was extremely unpopular."

He said he wanted more details of the proposal and time to study them before making an opinion.

Imposition of the tax was backed in principle by the UBCM's Municipal Act revision committee.

Opposition Swamped

Delegates opposed to the new tax argued that it is "manifestly unfair" to non-property owners but they were swamped by representatives of municipalities eager to tap an additional source of revenue.

UBCM delegates yesterday also:

Gave unanimous support to a resolution asking repeal of all control over hours of business of all retail establishments as an aid to the tourist trade through wiping out the Shops Regulation and Weekly Holiday Act.

Approved for inclusion in a new Municipal Act legislation to compel a municipal council to operate under provisions of the present Municipal Superannuation Act.

Endorsed a proposal that the new statute include the provision that real property owned by a municipality outside its boundaries including parks and cemeteries be subject to taxation by another municipality.

Approved in principle a Prince Rupert resolution asking that municipalities be given the right to levy a licence fee on public houses equal to the fee collected by the Liquor Control Board.

Chest Race Is On

The "hat race" is on in six western Canadian cities, including Victoria, for the honor of becoming the first to reach its Community Chest goal.

Vancouver and Saskatoon have already accepted the challenge from Mayor Percy Scurrah and acceptances are expected today from Edmonton, Winnipeg and Regina.

The challenge is simply that Mayor Scurrah will give a silk top hat to any mayor's city who gets there before Victoria does.

As of last night Victoria had $41,116 or 20 per cent of its goal of $220,000. Saskatoon stood at 17 per cent of its objective, Regina at 35.5 per cent, Edmonton at 26 per cent. Vancouver figures were not available.

In Victoria campaign vice-chairman H. L. Alexander said the Chest drive is "running about neck and neck with last year."

Shortage Serious

Act Right Now, Get Your Wood Officials Urge

Victoria users of wood fuel were urged yesterday by Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney to take action quickly to avoid, if possible, being caught short this winter.

The city will try to help citizens in an emergency, he said, but he emphasized that the shortage of wood fuel will be a continuing and growing problem and that the city can't solve it permanently.

"Ald. J. D. Smith and I have been appointed to act as a committee to investigate and bring forward findings on the shortage of fuel wood," the acting mayor said.

"First, I would say that the city council is always ready to help its citizens in any emergency. This may become an emergency, but whatever the city does will not be a permanent solution to the problem.

"We must realize we have a serious problem and with a dwindling supply of what used to be scrap wood the fuel situation will not improve but will become worse and worse.

"If the city is faced with subsidizing the citizens in an emergency, it will cost the taxpayers money, and our policy as the people of Victoria are aware is to keep the taxes down as low as possible.

"The problem is here. Let us face it."

Acting Mayor Mooney urged wood fuel users to see now what they can do and not to let themselves be caught unprepared if a cold spell comes early.

Planer Feeder Badly Injured

A 38-year-old planer feeder at Moore Whittington Ltd. lost a finger and cut his right hand and arm badly in an accident yesterday morning.

Edward Flipp[illegible], 1343 Pembroke, was admitted to Jubilee Hospital and later reported in good condition. He apparently became caught in the planer as he fed wood into it.

Neighbors' Feud Aired in Court

Magistrate Henry C. Hall yesterday dismissed a charge laid under the "verbal threat" section of the Criminal Code by a Saanich woman against her next-door neighbor.

Mrs. Marion S. Nicholl, 1983 Haley Road, had charged that she feared Mrs. Lillian Stephens, 2081 Haley, would cause personal injury to her or to her children or would damage her property.

Mrs. Stephens said the Nicholl dog was always fighting with hers on her property and for that reason she had said she would kill it if it wasn't kept away.

Mrs. Nicholl, and two of her three daughters, Tannis, 16, and Valerie, 19, all testified that Mrs. Stephens had attacked their dog and Tannis with an eight-foot long stick with a nail at its end and that she had once screamed "I'll get you out of that house or I'll kill you."

Court Quashes Motion To Upset Zoning Law

Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane dismissed in Supreme Court yesterday a city motion to set aside the application of two citizens for an order quashing two sections of Victoria's new zoning by-law.

Hearing on the citizens' application will proceed at a date to be decided by city solicitor T. P. O'Grady and Ronald Grant and W. H. M. Haldane, lawyers representing the applicants.

Mr. O'Grady unsuccessfully sought to have the application quashed on grounds of a technicality involving the rule of practice.

They Also Top Suicide Rate

Best Advice: Cut Down on Meals

Divorced Women Slimmest, Says Doctor

Although he doesn't recommend divorce as a means of reducing, Dr. Stanley S. B. Gilder of Toronto, editor of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, said here yesterday statistics show divorcees are the slimmest of women.

Statistics to date, although more work has yet to be done, show that married women are the fattest. Single girls and divorcees are much slimmer. And divorced women are by far the slimmest of all," said Dr. Gilder.

"But," he warns, "I don't recommend divorce as a means of reducing. The highest suicide rate in the U.S. is among divorcees."

Tucking into a plateful of boiled beef and mashed potatoes full of calories and proteins, Dr. Gilder attacked women who try to slim without a thorough knowledge of what they are doing. And he condemned the gluttony and laziness of people on this continent.

"The only way to slim," said the 47-year-old doctor, who has kept his weight constant for many years, "is to eat less than you want."

"It's no use all women following a standard chart for slimming," he said between forksful of beef. "Every person needs a different minimum amount of food to keep healthy."

He derided drugs like dexedrine—"which are no good to your health."

"It has been suggested that at some distant date in the future people will live with two pills. One for nourishment and the other swelling up inside the stomach to take away the appetite. I hope I'm not alive then," he said as he put down his knife and fork and started on his coffee.

Attending the CMA convention at the Empress Hotel, the doctor, who has command of many European languages and is an associate editor of the World Medical Journal, had some hard-hitting words for gluttons.

"Many psychologists declare that the glutton is a person who tried to substitute lack of affection by over eating," he said.

"This person feels he must have something from the world. If he can't get some one's affection. And as yet, a person can over-eat without people pointing an accusing finger at him.

"As with smoking, gluttony is not considered a social evil, like other forms of excess," he added.

Dr. Gilder, who packs a punch in every sentence, then stormed at the North American way-of-life. "People are so lazy these days, that the only exercise many of them get is slamming a car door.

"No wonder with all this overeating, laziness and cults among women of slimming, our children are following the same ways.

"Recent reports to the medical world show that children in Europe are stronger and healthier than our own over here.

"If this scheme of things continues the future of the North American continent is indeed black," he said.

City Physical Education Plan

Muscle Tests Proposed for Children

Tests that showed Italian children amazingly more muscular and supple than U.S. children may be applied to Victoria elementary school children next spring.

The tests, which grade back and abdominal strength, are known as Kraus-Weber tests. The Victoria branch of the Canadian Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation, a group formed by physical education teachers in Victoria schools, hopes to conduct them here.

When the tests were applied in Italy and Austria, 8.5 per cent of the children tested failed to pass them all. In the United States the percentage was 78.3 per cent, which so astonished President Eisenhower that he ordered special committees formed to study the situation.

The association also decided at a meeting Wednesday night to include in this year's program the establishment of a clinic in synchronized swimming, rhythmic exercises and team games, and to study the possibility of establishing a remedial center for posture defects.

Little Extras Add Interest To Thanksgiving Dinner

Before saying anything else may I wish you all a very happy Thanksgiving weekend. In many a home there'll be the ... turkey cooked and ... recipes for using up the leftovers next week. I thought this morning it might be helpful if we talked about the accessories which can do so much to make your family get-together an affair of which you may justly be proud. To get this holiday meal off to a good start I'd suggest a crunchy appetizer and you might give this ... that it must be prepared the day before.

CELERY PINWHEELS

Blend plain cream cheese with an equal quantity of Roquefort type cheese. Add enough mayonnaise to make a firm spreading consistency. Season with a little Worcestershire sauce. Separate the stalks of celery, wash and dry. Fill stalks with the cheese mixture and press them back into the original form of the bunch. Roll in waxed paper and keep overnight in refrigerator. Just before serving, slice celery crosswise ... Allow two or three slices per person and arrange on crisp lettuce cups.

Colorful Sidelights Missing in TV Show

BY ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — ...

It was sad the cameras couldn't have pointed out more historical landmarks, such as the shambles of the Hollywood Hotel, torn down to make way for progress, or Valentino's grave or the monument to him in a nearby park.

In the studios themselves the make-up and wardrobe departments that give the stars their glamor also are important to the Hollywood scene.

Outside of the studios the native habitats of the special known as movie stars are colorful and varied. The Beverly Hills jail, where many a celebrity has sat in the spotless cells with their restful green walls, is part of Hollywood. So is the Vedanta Church, an exact copy of the Taj Mahal, nestled behind the palm trees and the old Spanish style houses in the hills.

For example, at one time the cameras were focused on a specially staged parade down Hollywood Blvd., but what the viewers didn't see was more typical of Hollywood. Behind the cameras appeared a sleek white foreign sports car, driven by a heavy-set man, shirtless and sporting a long black beard. That may not be "upbeat," as the show's producers said was their intention, but it is part of the colorful community.

Howe Off Soon On Japan Tour

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe is to fly to Japan Oct. 21 to open a two-week goodwill tour of the teeming industrial centres there. The entire Japanese government is planning to turn out to greet him.

It will be the first trip to that country for the 70-year-old minister, who in recent years has toured South America, Australia and New Zealand.

HON. W. D. BLACK

Under New Law:

Qualifications Less For Municipal Office

Qualifications for municipal office would be lowered under terms of new municipal legislation outlined yesterday to the Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention at Penticton.

A person seeking election would only be required to be an owner-elector, and on the voters' list for the current and preceding year.

The speech which was to have been presented by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black was delivered by his deputy J. E. Brown when the minister collapsed and was taken to hospital.

Objective of the new statute scheduled to go before the legislature next session, is to make local government in B.C. "the most effective that can be found anywhere," Mr. Brown told delegates.

Candidates for municipal office have been required to have a certain equity in real property in the municipality.

VALUES ABANDONED

Mr. Brown said all consideration of values were abandoned in drafting the new act.

A consolidation of eight acts the new statute embodies [illegible] sweeping revisions of existing legislation.

The new act, said Mr. Brown, will provide for a form of metropolitan government to take care of services and functions extending beyond municipal boundaries in rapidly growing areas.

This section will be reviewed at a special meeting Oct. 18 between Municipal Affairs Minister Black and the UBCM's Municipal Act revision committee probably in Victoria.

Two additional classes of municipalities—local district municipalities and towns—will be set up by the new act.

A chairman and two trustees will administer a local municipal district, a chairman and four commissioners a village, a mayor and four aldermen a town, a mayor and six aldermen cities having a population of [illegible] or less, and a mayor and eight aldermen cities of more than 50,000.

It is proposed that a municipality can shift from one class to another when it has achieved the requisite size and ability to undertake responsibilities of the new level.

Tired Minister 'Blacks Out'

Municipal Affairs Minister W. D. Black was "resting easily" in Penticton General Hospital last night after suffering a severe attack of dizziness in his hotel room early yesterday.

"I guess I've just overdone it," he told The Daily Colonist in a telephone conversation from his hospital ward. "I haven't had a rest since the campaign."

The [illegible]-year-old minister, who is also provincial secretary, said he blacked out a little [illegible] Wednesday morning and [illegible] while shaving yesterday before a scheduled speech to the [illegible] annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

The speech was read by his deputy minister, J. Everett Brown while Dr. W. A. Wickett of Penticton was conducting a thorough medical examination of the minister.

Dr. Wickett reported that Mr. Black was suffering from nervous exhaustion but definitely did not suffer a stroke or heart attack. He would be confined to his hospital bed for at least three days.

Fright Vital Problem

[illegible]

By LOUIS ALEXANDER

HOUSTON, Tex.—If the chairs went floating by, and a cup of coffee turned upside down but failed to spill out, you'd be certain you were in a dream world.

[illegible] earth's gravity.

In such a world the men aboard the first space trip would not know where their next meal is coming from—up, down, or sideways. Furthermore panic would come easily even to level-headed men if a state of being weightless makes them unsure which side is the bottom.

Mass and weight are not the same thing [illegible] hold points out. An object can be big without being heavy, a feather [illegible] for example [illegible] ever weigh nothing.

Weight exists because of external forces pulling or pushing on an object. Outside the pull of the earth's mass—hundreds of miles outside it, in space—solid objects may be weightless, though solid.

What is the effect [illegible]

Flighty Duke 21 Next Week

Kent Scatters His Charms

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UP)—British debutantes seem to be striving for two distinctions these days. One is to be presented

On Oct. 9, the duke celebrates his 21st birthday, the age at which British royalty becomes "marriageable." From now on his choice of girl friends will be examined in court circles. But the old courtiers are in for a shock if they expect the six-foot blue-eyed blond duke to escort only the right people

Champagne parties, minor auto-mobile accidents, a pose for photog-raphers in a false mustache, a date with a hotel flower girl, public kisses with his lovely escorts. He has stood in movie lines, slipped coins into juke boxes and tapped his toes to rock 'n' roll.

Good looking, reasonably wealthy and with an illustrious title, young Kent is the target of many a match-making mother—and well he knows it.

He tells friends: "I'll get married

It's Bonanza time at Buick Dealers!

Opportunity with a Capital O-h-h!

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

MAYBE ONCE in a blue moon, a chance like this comes along—an opportunity to pick up a years-ahead Buick at a Bonanza buy that will open your eyes.

Because we can't promise that Buick prices will ever be as low again as they are today—

And your present car is surely not getting any younger than it is today—

And today's high-volume Buick sales clearly put us in the best position to give you a top trade-in allowance today.

But most of all, look at all today's brilliant-styled 1956 Buick gives you for your money.

More room and size and weight and solid construction. True high-compression power. That famous deep-soul-cushioned ride.

And above all, that advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow* with the greatest combination of smoothness and pep of any transmission in the entire world today.

Answer opportunity's knock—and you'll find a '56 Buick outside your door! Smart thing to do is see us today.

*Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick has in Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at moderate cost in the Special.

You get a triple Bonanza in today's Buick

Bonanza Trade-in Allowance

With Buick so popular all across the country, our large sales volume lets us deal you an even sweeter trade-in allowance on your present car—which is at its peak worth today!

Bonanza Buy

Today's Buick prices start right on the heels of the smaller cars—but man! Just count the extra blessings Buick brings you. Extra power and sizzle. Extra size, room, luxury. Extra-smooth ride. More structural weight and solidity. New-as-tomorrow styling.

It's the Best Buick Yet!

Bonanza Resale

You can always bank on Buick's resale value—but your '56 Buick should get you even more when you trade it, thanks to today's new Variable Pitch Dynaflow*. It's the world's most advanced transmission—only one that gives you the cruising thrift and full-power acceleration of the modern plane's switch-pitch propellers!

It takes money to make good gasoline

Gasoline quality has risen tremendously in the past few years. Two gallons of today's gasoline do the work of three in the '20s.

Finding new techniques to make these improved gasolines, and new equipment to put these techniques to work, has cost a lot of money.

Imperial, with by far Canada's most extensive oil research facilities, has spent 20 million dollars over the past ten years on research alone.

Imperial spent 65 million in the same period directly on new equipment to improve gasoline quality.

It's costing more and more money to make the gasolines required by today's more powerful cars.

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

Pity the poor man who knows anything at all about radio or TV—he gets called upon to fix the television sets of all his neighbors, friends and acquaintances.

Like a chap who got dragged out of his home last Sunday while he was trying to get his own household jobs done.

A "friend" had called on Saturday night and insisted that the handy man come over and look at an ailing TV set. Unfortunately the repair man—who is not a TV expert—had company and could not come at once.

Nothing daunted, the set owner returned the next day and insisted on Sunday service.

The trouble turned out to be a blown fuse which was only located after the chassis was removed from the cabinet. And the repairman had to round up the proper fuse before he could solder it back to the ailing set. The job took most of the afternoon.

When the picture was restored the set owner rewarded his friend: "I guess two bits will cover the fuse, eh," he said.

Rita Del Mar's Daily Astrology

FRIDAY, OCT. 5, 1956

Today's quotation: "There are two things to aim at in life: first, to get what you want; and after that, to enjoy it. Only the wisest of mankind achieves the second."—Logan Pearsall Smith.

Friday for everyone: Make a special effort to preserve peace and harmony with associates; use care en route, as to what you say or sign. Shun upsets or mishaps. Defer important moves and chances to a better time.

Look for Your Birthdate and Birthsign Below

March 21 to April 19 (Aries)—If borrowing or lending is necessary, expect some obstacles or cross-currents. [illegible]

April 20 to May 20 (Taurus)—Discount the probability of co-operation from others. Conditions suggest a need for squaring away difficulties.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Forward routine with an eye to correcting past faulty techniques. Exert caution in diet.

June 21 to July 22 (Cancer)—Keep an eye on the trend of events where relations with others are concerned. Take no chances.

July 23 to Aug. 22 (Leo)—Turn aside from purely personal interests. Give attention where needed around your home or office.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 (Virgo)—Double-check your impressions and decisions. You should distrust snap judgment.

Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 (Libra)—Take nothing for granted in money or friendship matters. Stop up budget leaks.

Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 (Scorpio)—Be ready to find the way around obstacles and complications. Resist the urge to force matters with others.

Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 (Sagittarius)—Better to finish tasks than to launch new items. Be guarded in private matters, dealings with confidants.

Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 (Capricorn)—Expect little from friends or new acquaintances. Don't be caught up in some cross-currents.

Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 (Aquarius)—You have to hold up both your end and [illegible] of others in the business world or at home. Use poise and tact.

Feb. 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—Better defer important long-range decisions. Expect little from those afar.

Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertaining, etc.: Oct. 6, 9, 13, 14 (until evening), 17 (late afternoon and evening), 20, 24, 25, 27.

King Fisherman Contest

Woman Angler Wins Multiple-Crest Award

Mrs. Frances Francis of Courtenay has won the $25 ... by The Daily Colonist for the first angler to win crests in all four divisions of The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

Mrs. Francis caught a two-pound, four-ounce trout in the Puntledge River on Sunday. It was the first trout weighed in for the month of September, assuring Mrs. Francis of a trout crest.

Twenty crests are awarded each month to anglers catching the largest trout and tyee, spring and coho salmon.

Mrs. Francis, wife of Len Francis, one of Vancouver Island's better-known angling experts, won her first crest in June, when she entered a 29½-pound spring salmon at the Little River Fishing Camp.

She won her next two crests in July. She was one of the first to catch a tyee in Comox Bay and her 44¼-pounder was one of the largest of the month. She weighed it at the Elk Hotel.

Her crest-winning coho was caught off Little River and weighed in at the Little River Fishing Camp. It weighed seven pounds, two ounces, a good-sized silver for the time of the season it was caught.

Meanwhile, entries continue to come in steadily for the contest, which closes Oct. 31. Total number of entries has now passed 4,500 and the goal of 5,000 is in clear sight.

Crest-winners and winners of hidden-weight prizes for September will be announced next week. There will also be hidden-weight prizes for October and after the contest is over, the winners of the main hidden-weight prizes will be announced.

Top prize is the choice of either a 14-foot clinker-built inboard or a 12-foot cartop boat and outboard motor. Another prize, donated by Edward Lipsett Ltd. is a complete salmon-fishing outfit of rod, reel, line, net, tackle box and tackle. Balance of the prize list will be announced later in the month.

Science Winning Arthritis Battle

Doctors nowadays have much to offer the arthritis sufferer.

Fifteen or 20 years ago they did not. Not much was known then about the treatment of arthritis.

The advances made in the past two decades will provide some of the subject matter for five doctors who, as a panel, will discuss arthritis in all its aspects at the free, public medical forum to be presented at 8 p.m. Oct. 12 in the auditorium of Central Junior High School.

NO TICKETS NEEDED

The forum, similar to Victoria's previous well-established two public medical forums on cancer and heart disease, is being jointly sponsored as a community service by the Victoria Medical Society and The Daily Colonist.

No tickets are required to attend the free forum, except that persons who plan to come on crutches or in wheelchairs can make sure that accommodation will be reserved for them by writing to Arthritis Forum, The Daily Colonist, for special tickets that will admit them by the Fort Street entrance.

USE COUPON

The panel of doctors, in the latter half of the program, will answer questions about arthritis submitted on question coupons published in the Colonist. A coupon accompanies this article. Many questions have already been submitted, and those that cannot be answered within the time limit of the program will be answered in The Daily Colonist on succeeding days.

Gunnar Doubles Uranium Output

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The development of a uranium deposit in Northern Saskatchewan has doubled Canada's uranium output, J. N. Botsford, manager of Gunnar Mines, Ltd., said Wednesday.

Botsford described the deposit to the American Mining Congress here.

He said the property has produced 1,250 tons of ore a day for more than a year despite obstacles such as massive ice formations and 55-degree below zero temperatures. Botsford said his company has invested $20,000,000 in plant construction at the site.

Local Cadets Plan 'Invasion'

Combined Canadian Scottish Cadet Corps of Victoria and North Saanich will hold invasion exercises in the Sidney area Oct. 13 and 14.

More than 100 boys are expected to take part in the training programs, designed to arouse interest among the youths of the North Saanich district.
